Maps Congress Price Control Message

ROOSEVELT TO URGE SPEED ON NEW MEASURES

Barkley Says Statement To Be Given Lawmakers In Session Tomorrow.

WOULD SET 'CEILINGS'

Washington Hears Legislation Planned To Set Top Prices on All Commodities.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt will dispatch a special message to congress tomorrow urging immediate enactment of price control legislation as one of the latest requirements in the national defense program.

This was announced today by Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley following an hour and 45 minute conference between the president and congressional leaders at the White House.

"The final draft of the proposed bill has not been completed," Barkley said, "but we are in general agreement on the fundamental principles."

The president received Vice-President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, and House Majority Leader McCormack, in addition to Barkley, shortly after his return from Hyde Park this morning.

Barkley would not discuss the nature of the proposed price control legislation in advance of the president's special message, but it is expected that congress will be asked to give legislative sanction to activities already being directed by Leon Henderson's office of price administration and civilian supply.

Such legislation would permit arbitrary placement of price ceilings on individual commodities or groups of commodities, with necessary adjustments to protect small business. A licensing feature affecting both buyers and sellers also is anticipated.

The far eastern crisis, coupled with vital European and domestic problems, brought President Roosevelt back to Washington today from a long week-end at Hyde Park, in the course of which he had served notice on Japan that the United States is on the alert militarily and economically in the Pacific.

Public reaction generally was reported to be satisfactory to Mr. Roosevelt's successive moves freezing all Japanese credits in the United States and placing the Philippines on a war time basis.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO CHIEF

Piqua Fire Chief Stricken While Directing Men at Blaze.

PIQUA—(U.P.)—Like his father who was city fire chief before him, Joseph A. Caulfield, 41, chief of the Piqua fire department since 1939, died of a heart attack suffered while directing his men at a fire.

The younger Caulfield collapsed late yesterday while directing firemen battling a blaze at a farm, two miles west of Piqua. He died a few hours later in a doctor's office in Piqua.

The father, Peter J. Caulfield, who was chief prior to his son, dropped dead of a heart attack at the Holland Mills fire in December, 1939.

A break in the four-day death-dealing humid heat wave which has gripped Mansfield and the middle west was predicted for Thursday as the city area today reported its first casualty from the heat.

Forecaster C. L. Ganaway of the Chicago weather bureau said barometric pressure was rising in Canada, North Dakota and Minnesota and that cooler weather should move eastward toward the Ohio valley by Thursday or Friday.

The victim in the Mansfield area was William Harren, Crestline, who was overcome by the heat while working in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad shops at Willard yesterday afternoon.

Harren was taken to Willard Municipal hospital where attendants today reported his condition as improved. A New Haven woman, Mrs. Ernest Atyeo, who had also been brought to the hospital suffering from an illness induced by the heat, was released.

Meanwhile the season's worst hot spell had taken 259 lives over the nation, 127 by prostration and 132 by drowning. Nine of the deaths and 11 of the drownings were reported in Ohio.

Thundershowers swept north of Mansfield last evening offering temporary relief along Lake Erie's shore, but failing to affect the city's heat to any extent.

In Springfield farmers reported they were forced to haul water to livestock as a water shortage, caused by 10 days of excess heat, and drought, became acute.

Offices and industrial plants in many parts of the midwest were closed for a half-holiday yesterday because of the heat. In Washington, D. C., 30,000 government em-

Council To Study Lexington Request For Water Supply

The request of the village of Lexington that Mansfield supply it with water to supplement its diminishing supply will be referred to city council at its August meeting next Tuesday, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced today.

Lexington would need only 4,500,000 a year, less than the city pumps in a single day. It would cost the village about $575 to purchase that amount of water, Crafton said.

Councilman C. N. Shultz, chairman of the water committee of council, said that the question will not be referred to its committee until it is officially presented to council but that he had studied the problem.

Shultz said that the matter of transporting the water to Lexington's lines, the effect on the city's own supply, and several other de-

AKRON—(AP)—The B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, through a newly-organized defense subsidiary, will operate a $35,000,000 ordnance plant on a 24,300-acre tract near Texarkana, Tex.

President John L. Collyer of Goodrich announced today that 8,000 construction workers would start building the plant immediately. The giant plant will load bombs and shells, Collyer said.

CRASH CAUSES GASOLINE FLOOD

(Pictures on Page 2)

The collision of an automobile, gasoline truck and city bus yesterday afternoon at Franklin and East Fourth streets brought Mansfield firemen out to flush the street to remove the threat of a possible fire from 200 gallons of gasoline spilled in the crash.

The accident occurred when an auto driven by Gerald E. Woodgerd, 426 Bowman street, was struck by the gasoline truck owned by the Richland County Farm Bureau cooperative which in turn was hit by a Mansfield Rapid Transit company bus, police reported.

Homer E. Cole, 497 West Fourth street, driver of the truck, told police that his truck was struck in the rear by the bus and thrown forward against the auto. Cole said that impact caused a leak in the gasoline tank.

Firemen hurriedly washed the 200 gallons of spilled gasoline down the sewers to prevent a fire

'Green' Traffic Squad To Begin Duties Friday

Bates Declines to Name Commissioner to Train Men Until Vacationing Mayor Completes Appointments.

Mansfield's new traffic squad, scheduled to go into action Friday without any training beforehand, as Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced today that the four appointees would take over their duties Aug. 1, as authorized by council.

Despite Mayor William J. Locke's statement that he wished to avoid placing "green" men on the streets for traffic work, his absence in Canada on a fishing trip will make such a move necessary.

Locke appointed five men to the squad on July 19 before leaving for Camp Beaverland, Canada. He selected the only five of the nine men certified for the post who could ride motorcycles.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, the city's legal appointing agency, who was not called on to make the appointment of the traffic men, asked for a list of three men certified for the vacated post.

Crafton announced today, however, that he would delay the task of appointing the new traffic po-

NIPPON TAKES OVER FRENCH NAVAL BASE

Troops Swarm Ashore From Big Transports to Occupy Five Garrison Posts.

HOLD TWO OTHER BASES

Occupation of Camranh Bay Follows Arrival of Forces at Tourane, Nhatrang.

(By Associated Press)

SAIGON, French Indo-China—The Japanese army and navy took over the French naval base of Camranh Bay today, beginning in force the occupation of five garrison posts and eight air bases in southern Indo-China which may become the seat of future widespread operations in southeastern Asia.

While troops swarmed ashore from a fleet of transports and warships at Camranh Bay, a smoothly clicking Japanese headquarters in Saigon sped directions for the further occupation.

By taking possession of Camranh Bay, the Japanese were in possession of a base about midway between British Singapore and Hongkong.

Occupation of Camranh followed by 24 hours the arrival of Japanese forces at two other east coast bases in southern Indo-China—Tourane and Nhatrang.

(Nhatrang is about 200 miles airline northeast of Saigon and Tourane is 300 miles in a direct line on up the Annam coast.)

Japanese and French planes roared overhead in a prelude to the landing of the main Japanese force tomorrow in Saigon.

Troopships with a warship escort were scheduled to reach Cap St. Jacques, below Saigon, tonight and to proceed up-river to Saigon tomorrow to disembark a force whose numbers still were unknown here.

Saigon will be the main gateway through which the Japanese will fan out to occupy other posts in Cochin-China and Cambodia. Garrisons will be stationed at Baria on the road to Cap St.

SEE AIR GUARD

Aviation Home Defense Unit Expected To Be Formed.

A civilian home guard of the air, intended to protect Mansfield's municipal airport, will probably be formed in the near future, James R. (Bud) Harrington, airport manager, announced today.

Harrington based his statements on an announcement by State Aeronautics Director Earle L. Johnson that the state's 1,610 licensed pilots will be formed into a Civil Air Defense guard to protect Ohio airports and flying facilities.

About 16 flying instructors, mechanics and other personnel at the Mansfield airport would be affected by the order. Tentative plans call for the registration, finger-printing, photographing and checking of all birth records of all pilots in setting up air defense units at the state's 109 airports. The group will co-operate with home guard units.

German Forces Losing Ground, Moscow Says

Declare Drives Toward Capital And Kiev Breaking Up; Nazis Claim Advances; Churchill Warns That 'Invasion Season's At Hand.'

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (AP) — Authorized German sources asserted tonight that German submarines yesterday and last night sank 19 British vessels totalling 116,500 tons. These ships were said to have been in a transatlantic convoy.

(By Associated Press)

A Red army bulletin declared today that Adolf Hitler's 38-day-old drives toward Moscow and Kiev were "breaking against the firmness and stubbornness of our troops" and that in some places Russian troops had opened counter-attacks, inflicting heavy losses on the invaders.

Hitler's high command asserted that the Red armies in the south had been thrown back from the Bessarabian "buffer state" into the Ukraine, and it gave this picture of action on the vital central front:

"The enemy's power groups which were overrun in the course of our break-through of the Stalin line in the direction of Smolensk now have been virtually wiped out."

The Nazi communique reported that the last encircled Russian troops "eastward of Smolensk" were facing annihilation and that a great number of prisoners would be reported in a few days as a result of "this tremendous battle of destruction."

On the Leningrad front, the Germans said that Soviet forces west of Lake Peipus trapped by units assigned to mop up Estonia were "also facing destruction."

German-allied Rumanian troops were reported to have reached the region of the Dniester river, which separates Bessarabia from the Soviet Ukraine, and "Bessarabia is thus completely liberated."

Throughout the night, a Soviet communique said, violent fighting raged in three main sectors of the 2,000-mile battlefront — on the Nevel and Smolensk fronts, guarding Moscow, and the Zhitomir front in the south, protecting the Russian Ukraine capital of Kiev.

It was one of the most optimistically worded Soviet communiques of the war, contrasting sharply with yesterday's report by the German high command that Nazi troops were on the threshold of victory in the Smolensk sector, 230 miles west of Moscow. A German military spokesman had even asserted that a direct assault on the Soviet capital itself might come next.

In London, meanwhile, Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned Britons of the possibility of a German invasion attempt against the British Isles in September.

"The invasion season is at hand," he said.

"All armed forces have been

Churchill Says Nation Advances 'In Rising Wrath and Conviction.'

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Asserting that the United States has now advanced "to the very verge of war," Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced today that all Britain's armed forces had been ordered to be at "concert pitch" on September 1.

Clearly indicating he expects Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to attempt an invasion around that time, Churchill said:

"We have to reckon with a gambler's desperation.

"We have to reckon with a criminal who by a mere gesture decreed death for three or four million Russian and German soldiers. . . .

"The United States, the greatest single power in the world, is advancing in rising wrath and conviction to the very verge of war."

Churchill praised Soviet Russia for dealing a "mighty blow to Germany for the first time in the war."

The prime minister did not say that Hitler's time-table actually called for invasion to begin the first day of September, which will be just two years from the date of the German attack upon Poland which led to outbreak of war.

But both he and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned Bri-

STUDENTS MAY BE DEFERRED

Director Says Local Boards Have Authority To Defer Students.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— There is ample authority for local selective service boards to defer agricultural students as trainees for "defense occupations," Lieut. Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service administrator, announced today.

Colonel Goble said he had specific instructions from Washington permitting this action because of the shortage of farm workers.

He cautioned boards, however, that each case must stand on its own merits.

BOMB SICILY

British Claim 31 Enemy Planes Destroyed In Italian Raid.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The Royal Air Force reported today that 34 enemy planes were destroyed and many others damaged in raids upon airdromes in Sicily yesterday. Casualties were inflicted on airdrome personnel, the RAF said.

Attacks were carried out on Italian air bases at Catania, Syracuse Marsala and Borizzo, the RAF said.

No RAF planes were lost, it was reported.

WARNS AGAIN

Ickes Says Gas Consumption Must Be Reduced.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Petroleum coordinator Ickes today renewed his warning that gasoline consumption in the east must be voluntarily reduced 33⅓ per cent if government rationing is to be avoided.

In a radio address last night, Ickes reported that figures for the last week showed more than a million and a half gallon increase in consumption and declared that the eastern citizens are "incurably optimistic."

Ickes said that the shortage, created by transfer of tankers to britain, will be relieved when new tankers are built and a pipe line constructed from the oil-producing gulf states to the Atlantic seaboard. Meanwhile, he added, curtailment is necessary either by voluntary or forced methods.

SINGER MISSING

Gen. Johnson Says:

There'll Be Hell to Pay--Unless

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK—Unless we soon get some kind of efficient overhead command, control and coordination of this mammoth economic war in which we are already engaged to the hilt, there is going to be hell to pay in this country. From every point of the compass are signs of volcanic disruptions in the ways of life and labor by which bread-winners feed their families.

For example, no official with a single responsibility like price control should be permitted to order so drastic a step as 50% reduction in automobile production without consultation with other chiefs of our economic effort. It amounts to arbitrary paralysis of a system upon which millions depend for their living—employers, employes and their dependents.

The sudden embargo on Japan was perhaps wise and justifiable but what study was made of the effect on American requirements—both military and civilian—of the sudden cessation of supply of such an essential commodity as silk? And what provision was made to soften the shock?

Arbitrary allotments of many basic materials and of transportation, storage, power and even many such apparently unimportant things as corrugated card-board for shipping containers, threatens to choke or destroy tens of thousands of small business enterprises. All right, if that is necessary, but where sits any authority to make sure that it is necessary, or the authority to study and compose the justice of conflicting needs?

Financial and economic commentators, not under the various compulsions of official positions in competing government bureaus, are almost unanimous in the opinion that the seeds of a really dangerous price inflation are sprouting everywhere. That could be one of the greatest burdens that could be bound on the backs of the whole people—worse than crushing taxes and mountainous debt. There has been a lot of talk and gestures, but what really effective action has been taken to check that possible catastrophe?

You can't control rising prices without controlling rising wages and prices of food. This administration seems to lack the stomach for that for fear of labor and agriculture. And yet price control is as necessary to protect people in those two fields as it is to protect other people. What agency is studying this vital complex as a whole and reporting frankly and honestly to the American people on this problem?

Say Moves on Moscow, Kiev Weaken; Churchill Warns of 'Invasion Season.'

warned to be at concert pitch by Sept. 1 and to maintain the utmost vigilance."

Churchill added that "it is madness to suppose that Russia or the United States is going to win the war for us."

There was no intimation whether Churchill actually feared an invasion in the next six weeks or whether this was merely another in a series of "pep talks" to maintain watchfulness.

Simultaneously, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared Hitler's time-table for the conquest of Russia was " plainly out of joint."

Eden rejected in advance a "peace blitz" by which he said the Nazi fuehrer "hopes to keep his promise to the German people to end the war this year with victory."

Asserting that the peace offer was certain to be made soon, Eden declared:

"There can be no peace with such a man, there can only be an uneasy truce which will give him time to overhaul and oil his war machine. . . . It is our bounden duty to insure that Germany is not in another 20 years in position to plunge the world into the misery and horror of total war."

The Russians reported victories in the air and at sea as well as along the land front. The Red fleet in the Baltic was said to have sunk two patrol vessels and a torpedo boat, with a loss of one torpedo boat. Russian planes downed 109 German aircraft Saturday with a loss of 36 planes, the Moscow war bulletin said.

Blacked-out Moscow had its sixth air raid of the war last night with some fires touched off and an undisclosed number of casualties. The Russians declared, however, that of 140 to 150 raiders only a few actually broke through the city's defenses and nine were reported shot down.

Finland, now linked with Germany in the campaign against Soviet Russia, broke off diplomatic relations yesterday with Britain, Russia's co - belligerent against Germany.

The break, which the Finns pictured as inevitable because of the new line-up of powers, came 17 months after Britain was shipping cash and war material to Finland to aid her earlier fight against the Russians.

Soviet Premier Josef Stalin was reported last night in Ankara to have sent a letter to President Ismet Inonu of Turkey assuring him that Russia has no intention of attempting to seize the Dardanelles.

The letter was reported prompted by a British suggestion of a direct statement to ease any Turkish concern.

Japan's occupation of southern Indo-China went into high gear as warships and troop transports brought garrison troops and military supplies into Camranh bay.

At Hanoi it was announced officially a total of 40,000 Japanese troops would be stationed in southern Indo-China. Troops already have moved into bases at Nhatrang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, and Tourane, 300 miles up the coast from Saigon.

Other warships were approaching Saigon to land still more Japanese, expected to take over posts dominating the east coast, the Thailand border and the upper half of the Gulf of Siam.

In Vichy, France's Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan and Japanese Ambassador Sotomatsu Kato signed a protocol for the "common defense of French Indo-China," binding the two governments to military co-operation as long as circumstances demand.

Other developments in the Far East crisis indicated that an explosive climax may be forthcoming soon:

1. In Shanghai, American officials reported that Japanese sentries had been stationed outside American oil company properties at Tsingtoa and Dairen, halting all business.

2. In Sydney, Army Minister Percy Spender announced that about one-quarter of Australia's military has been called up for full-time service beginning Oct. 1.

3. The London radio said an order had been issued in Capetown, South Africa, to detain the 9,000-ton Japanese freighter Manila Maru, headed for Japan with a full cargo.

4. In San Francisco, the luxurious Japanese liner Tatuta Maru, with nearly 100 American passengers and a $2,500,000 cargo of raw silk aboard, was reported still continuing her time-marking cruise off the Pacific coast.

It was apparent that the ship was loath to risk docking, despite United States assurance of prompt clearance should she enter port.

The Tatuta Maru and 44 other Japanese ships en route to United States ports when President Roosevelt ordered Japanese assets "frozen" last week are still maintaining radio silence.

FIRE DAMAGE $50,000

BENTON HARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—Damage was estimated at more than $50,000 today in the wake of a fire which swept through three buildings of the House of David colony.

tails would have to be worked out before a decision could be made.

Crafton stated that it would only be necessary for the village to run a pipeline about a quarter of a mile to connect with the city's well No. 7.

Unless the city supplies water to Lexington, the village will be forced to sink new wells. Not only would the new wells put hardships on the village through great expense but the new wells would be tapping Mansfield's present water table, according to Crafton.

The service director explained that although Lexington draws from the same water table as the city at present, its supply comes from hard rock fissures while Mansfield obtains it from gravel deposits. Crafton said that hard rock wells were usually independent of each other while the gravel wells were sympathetic, maintaining a general level.

tain to be ready for the unexpected.

Addressing the house of commons in his first war review in several weeks, Churchill said that there were grounds for British optimism.

"But it is wrong to suppose," he said, "that Russia or the United States of America is going to win this war for us."

"All our armed forces have been warned to be at concert pitch on September 1," Churchill said.

"We still stand as champion. If we fail, others will fail. . . .

"We are not a totalitarian nation, but steadily and as fast as possible we are working into a total war organization. . . .

"Our American friends and helpers are making a great effort in a common cause. Our duty is to satisfy our American friends there is no muddle and that they are getting value for their money.

"We welcome their criticism."

In this connection, Churchill rejected demands for appointment of a minister of production. The present production committee, he said, is functioning perfectly.

Churchill branded as harmful reports of "lurid chaos and convulsion within the various production departments which bear no relation to the facts."

The prime minister said that British production in the second year of this war equalled production in the fourth year of the last. Aircraft production in general has increased substantially and that of bombers had been doubled.

Work of the North American supply committee has reached a high level, the prime minister said.

"There is room for improvement," he admitted, "but all charges of a production muddle merely harm President Roosevelt's aid program and feed the isolationists, at the same time affecting Australia while Australian troops are bearing the brunt of the fighting."

Churchill emphasized there were no current labor disputes. Only 2,000,000 work days have been lost thus far, he pointed out, compared to twelve millions lost through labor troubles in the last war.

Eden, speaking to a foreign press luncheon, said that Adolf Hitler's time-table for smashing Russia was "already out of joint."

"A peace blitz soon will be hurled upon us," he said. "His offer of a compromise peace will be a monument of moderation, reasonablenes sand hypocricy. But any Hitler peace would last only as long as he chose.

"We are determined upon destruction of Hitler and his regime. Our conditions of peace will be designed to prevent repetition of Germany's misdeeds, but it is not part of our purpose to cause Germany or any other country to collapse economically."

Eden expressed hope that after the war is over, the United States "will work with us in keeping peace."

"It will be our duty to start at once fashioning the world so that causes of rivalry may be removed," Eden added.

The foreign secretary intimated that failure of the "peace blitz" would be followed by a new German attempt to subjugate England.

LAUNCHES TOUR

Lemke Calls For Return Of Government To People.

OTTAWA —(AP)— Launching a mid-western speaking tour, William Lemke, former North Dakota congressman who lost his bid for the presidency in 1936, called last night for a "fight for a return of the control of the government of the United States to the American people."

Addressing 2,000 farmers at a rally sponsored by the Putnam county Farmers' Protective association, Lemke opposed extension of the one-year military training limit for selective service men, and assailed what he said was governmental control over bankers, industrialists and farmers.

SEEK SLAYER

STEUBENVILLE —(INS)— The slayer of Magnone Marto, 48-year-old steel worker, was sought today by Police in Weirton, W. Va., where his body was found in a sewer late yesterday. There were two bullet wounds in Marto's head. He was the father of two children.

Here are two scenes as Mansfield firemen were called out yesterday to wash away 200 gallons of gasoline spilled in a truck-bus collision at Franklin and Fourth streets. The gasoline was washed down sewers to prevent fire. # FARMERS ORGANIZE TO PROTEST WHEAT MARKETING PENALTIES

Plymouth and Cass township farmers set up their own organization to protest the federal government's wheat marketing restrictions at a meeting held last night at the Plymouth school auditorium.

More than 100 Richland county farmers from that area were present. They elected H. Fackler, Plymouth township, as chairman of the joint township organization and made plans to unite with the county and state groups.

It was announced that Russell Kiko of Canton, a leader in forming Farmers' Protective league branches in the state, would speak in Mansfield Monday night to the Richland county organization.

Plans for that meeting are yet incomplete, according to W. L. Griebling, secretary-treasurer.

County officers and committeemen from organizations opposing the wheat penalty will go to Marysville Wednesday to help set up by-laws for a state organization, Griebling said.

The state organization will take action towards having the penalty for selling excess wheat lifted and to get other changes effected in the wheat program.

An amendment to the wheat marketing quota law to permit farmers to feed excess wheat to livestock and poultry without immediate imposition of the 49-cent per bushel excess penalty was offered today by two Ohio senators and one from Indiana according to United Press dispatches.

The amendment, authorized by Senators Robert A. Taft and Harold H. Burton, R., of Ohio, and Raymond E. Willis, R., of Indiana, provides that the excess wheat above the individual farmer's acreage quota so consued shall be deducted from the farmers' 1942 acreage allotment.

Burton said the chairman, Ellison D. Smith, D., of South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee has agreed to accept the amendment to be offered as a rider to a bill which would exempt from AAA wheat quotas farmers who plant in excess of their allotments but whose actual yield is less than normal because of poor crop conditions.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JULY 29, 1941.

The inclination to boast seems so universal that some cities are even bragging about being "the hottest in the country."

News from Moscow may not be convincing, but a look at the map of Russia indicates that it will take the Nazis a long time to get anywhere.

A Franklin county grand jury is investigating charges that gambling has been going on in Columbus and vicinity—information being to the effect that this is against the law.

Presenting General Johnson's Views

FRANK discussion of world conditions, and of America's apparent approach to actual participation in war, is essential to better general understanding of current happenings and is a part of the freedom of thought and action which Americans continue to enjoy.

This right to express individual views, based on his own wide experience as a soldier and in public positions of high responsibility, is accorded General Hugh S. Johnson, whose daily column makes its first regular appearance in today's News-Journal.

It was General Johnson who originated the plan for the selective draft in 1917 and he was the executive in charge of its operation. He was also administrator of the NRA from its start in June 1933 until October 1934, since which he has been a commentator on national affairs, sometimes commending and sometimes adversely criticising administration policies.

In reading General Johnson's daily articles it is not a matter of whether the reader agrees or disagrees with what he says—except that he should be credited with sincerity and honesty in his opinions. What is really important is that these articles tend to stimulate thought on the subjects which he presents—all of which are of vital concern to every American.

In his article today, for instance, General Johnson bluntly proclaims: "Unless we soon get some kind of efficient overhead command, control and co-ordination of this mammoth economic war in which we are already engaged to the hilt, there is going to be hell to pay in this country" . . . and he goes on to tell why.

You may not agree with General Johnson . . . we may not be in accord with everything he says . . . but we admire his candor and consider him a keen analyst of national affairs. Read General Johnson's article today—and daily hereafter. Each of them will give you something to think about.

'Startling Revelation' By Nazis

ANOTHER curious phase of Nazi mentality was shown by the supposedly startling revelation in Berlin that President Roosevelt is a member of the Masonic order. All the Berlin newspapers printed, with big headlines, a picture which showed the president with two of his sons at a Masonic lodge session. It was supposed to be "particularly damning evidence" of criminality in the presidential person and office.

It is well known here that nearly all our presidents have been Masons, and nothing in our public life is more common than such membership, without regard to parties. It is taken as a matter of course that public men should belong to a lodge, or to several of them.

It appears that Masonry on the continent of Europe differs from Masonry in the United States, or in England, whence America borrowed the "Scottish Rite." Our Masonry is non-political. In continental countries the order is said to be commonly associated with political parties and movements, and thus it often incurs suspicion and criticism.

Ancient Experiments Revived

ANCIENT Babylonians had collective bargaining 5,000 years ago. They also had old-age pensions, government price-fixing, and government control of industry, stock market troubles and many other things which some persons consider modern. So says Dr. Walter H. Dubberstein, instructor in Oriental history at the University of Chicago.

Collective bargaining seems to have worked out fairly well through the old Babylonian guilds, "responsible to society for the good behavior of their members," and Babylonian social security may have been reasonably effective. Government monopoly and government price-fixing apparently were the same big flops in Babylon that they have been wherever and whenever tried.

With all their modern social and economic conveniences, the Babylonians had their day and went their way. Whether the life of their civilization was prolonged or curtailed by some of the experiments cited is something for the historians, archaeologists, political and social economists and others to fight out among themselves.

Will a similar debate about "ancient American civilization" be under way 5,000 years or so from now?

The Great American Game

THE CLEVELAND INDIANS have been steadily dropping behind in the American League pennant race, but Cleveland still leads in amateur baseball. More boys and young men—and girls—take part in organized ball playing there than anywhere else in the country. There are 4,000 playing hard ball and at least 12,000 playing soft ball this summer.

The city recreation department provides the many diamonds necessary for such wholesale sport. Incidentally, the Cleveland Baseball Federation, which sponsors these teams and their games, furnishes equipment for those without other support and provides good medical care for all players.

Probably no other professional and commercialized sport can compete with baseball in the large following its amateur counterpart enjoys. Baseball really is the national game, not because of the spectacular shows of the big league teams but because it is played at some time, in some form, by almost every American.

Picnics would be all right, some folks think, if it weren't for the mosquitoes—which make it necessary to start next day's work from scratch.

A dispatch from Tokyo says the Japanese are baffled—which leads a more youthful reader to inquire, "Is that bad?"

According to a biologist, "Men are closer to the apes than women are," but this may only apply to individual specimens.

It isn't so much a desire to see Russia win as it is to see Germany lose.

ONLY THE BEGINNING

How a Big Spy Ring Operates

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The four steps of espionage, from inception of a spy ring to its full function as a unit, are: (1) the recruiting of agents; (2) the accumulation of information, (3) the dispatch and delivery of that information and (4) the payment of agents.

There are only three other activities of a "fifth column" under any circumstances — sabotage, propaganda, and the closely related activity of preparation for occupation. With these we need not be concerned here. But let's see the points of espionage and see how they fit into the picture presented by the indictment at New York of the "greatest spy ring" in U. S. history.

As far back as 1936, say Hoover, Kennedy and the indictment, the recruiting of agents had started for this ring. The methods of "recruiting" are both subtle and brutal. Don't think for a minute that spies are just moved in from outside. That would be crude, because they could be easily spotted, and ineffective, because newcomers would not have access to information or the freedom to move about as trusted members of the industry in which they are employed or the community in which they settle.

* * *

Friendship A Factor.

THE bases of recruiting agents are friendship or at least acquaintance with an individual who has been mixed up in this sort of thing before. According to Hoover, Frederick Joubert Dusquesne might have been such a person. Hoover identified him as a "professional spy" who was mixed up in World war espionage.

Persons of known sympathy to a certain cause (but who have not openly indulged in activities against the nation in which they live) also are ripe for approach, especially if they are psychologically and economically adaptable. This includes the foreign-born misfits who move on the fringe of the underworld—but do not have criminal records.

Then there is blackmail of one form or another, including that particularly vicious one of threatening a person with harm to relatives left behind in their native land.

The state department's recent tightening of immigration to exclude all emigrants who have close kin still in the war zones shows just how certain the government is that this last method has been or is being used.

In fact, I am told it is pretty certain that all these methods were used in recruiting the present ring. And it is considered likely that some of the defendants will take their chances before a jury just to prove that they were coerced or driven by fear to take part in a plot in which they had no heart.

* * *

Close To Defense Jobs.

AS FOR the information accumulated, the present case abounds in actual and potential illustrations. One of the men indicted was an employe of the firm that manufactures the Norden bombsight. Another worked for the Sperry Gyroscope Co., which turns out a number of vital defense instruments. A third was a tool and die maker. Another worked for a Bendix, N. J., aviation instrument firm.

One had contact with an Akron, Ohio, steel products company, handling big defense contracts. Yet another was a former executive abroad of Ford Motor Co., on of the greatest assembly line manufacturing companies. Others were pier and dock workers, skilled in a knowledge of cargo loadings. There was one who was a shipping clerk, with access to sailing schedules.

So what? You can be certain that there was enough tangible evidence that our defense production secrets (including the great bombsight), production schedules, new machine tools and assembly line methods; shipping dates, routes and cargoes, were being filched for a grand jury to return indictments. So you can be sure, too, that enough of the evidence was provable to make nearly one fourth of those arrested in the ring plead guilty.

The means of gathering this secret information were simple enough; observation, theft (photography here is a prime factor), blackmail, and the pumping of indiscreet workers who are trusted employes in defense industries, trades and training.

Mrs. Elmer Post was appointed to serve on the committee of Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs work for the blind.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stutz, 25 East Second street.

Just Thirteen

—By GROVER E. SWOYER

Bright little fellow of only thirteen,
With his life snuffed out by a stray machine.
As he wended home toward Mother and all,
Tired from outrising the sun's early call,
Then as a hawk falls on its trusting prey.
His life was taken on the broad highway.

There he lay silent, all bruised and broken,
Death came suddenly with no word spoken,
'Twas the trail's end for the brave little man,
Who had lived life as the very strong can,
Then came the foe rushing up from the rear,
And it leaped on him as the wolf the deer.

It's fearful to drive a mighty machine,
When one thinks of this Scout of just thirteen.
If we deaden our sense by drug or drink,
And are thus unable from death to shrink,
Ere such a driver should get at the wheel,
May his own drugged blood forever congeal.

Timely Editorial

Uncharted Territory.

Such cases as that of the attractive, normal-appearing Canal Winchester nine-year-old who has confessed to starting a series of fires one of which cost the life of his little half-sister, bring us face to face with the realization that for all our vaunted modern knowledge, there is a vast domain in the realm of the human mind that is yet uncharted.

What motivated the lad's action, contrary as it is to common precept and example? How should he be dealt with? What can be done to prevent other juveniles who might feel the same errant impulse from yielding and bringing consequent loss and suffering on themselves and others?

These and many others are the questions which his case presents to society and to the psychologists. If they inspire, at first blush, a sense of helplessness and bewilderment in the face of a sobering problem, they also are a challenging incentive to those whose special field is this type of research to find the answers.—Columbus Dispatch.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Was Peer Gynt a real person?
2. Do English walnuts come from England?
3. What is a dead glacier?

Words of Wisdom.

Good breeding is the art of showing men by external signs, the internal regard we have for them. It arises from good sense, improved by conversing with good company.—Cato.

Hints on Etiquette.

Do not break crackers into your soup. They should be eaten with the soup, not in it.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Yes, he was a trapper famed for his wild and reckless exploits.

U. S. Oil Embargo Against Japan Delayed By Appeasement Efforts

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Twenty newspapermen leaned forward around the long blue baize table in the ante-room of the secretary of state. At the extreme end stood tall, austere Acting Secretary, Sumner Welles. On his face was an expression of grim-lipped intensity. In his hand was a typewritten statement. He read it aloud. It was a scathing, carefully worded blast against Japan.

At the opposite end of the table stood three Japanese newsmen, short, affable, eager. For months and years they had been attending press conferences, given the same privileges as any American newsman. For months also they had waited for some such bombshell.

Now it came.

One split second after Welles finished reading his statement, the Japanese were out the door, pattering down the marble corridor to the press room telephones.

It was a big day for Japanese newsmen.

* * *

Finally Ickes Wins.

IT WAS also a big day for certain members of the Roosevelt cabinet. For months and years they also had been waiting. For months and years also they had been urging Roosevelt to embargo oil shipments to Japan.

At the Friday cabinet meeting just before Japan moved, Secretary Ickes, as new oil administrator, raised the embargo question again. He proposed to stop oil shipments to Japan. But the acting secretary of state said no. On Monday, he said, Japan was going to make a move toward Indo-China and it would be wiser to wait until then.

Once before, Ickes had stopped a shipment of oil to Japan and aroused a wrath of the state department. Last June a Philadelphia manufacturer complained to him that a Japanese ship was loading 240,000 gallons of lubricating oil.

"I can't get oil myself to speed up my own defense orders," wrote the manufacturer, "and yet I see in front of my nose this shipment of oil going to Japan. To hell with defense, if the government is as screwy as that."

So Ickes called the coast guard and asked them to act before the oil was loaded. They did.

Then things began to boil. It did not leak out at the time, but the state department complained to the White House that Ickes' action had interfered with the policy of appeasing Japan so she would not go south to the Dutch East Indies. And the president called in Ickes.

However, Ickes held his ground. He insisted that he was not meddling in foreign policy, but that it was nonsense to ration oil and gas on the Atlantic seaboard and at the same time let Japan ship oil away from the Atlantic seaboard.

In the end Ickes won.

* * *

FDR Signed Order.

BUT eighteen months before the oil administrator and several of his cabinet colleagues did not win. The same issue was at stake. It came up at a dinner given by the late Lord Lothian at the British embassy in August at which Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau decided to ask the president to embargo all oil and scrap iron to Japan.

The president agreed and actually signed the executive orders. But they were never published. When the state department saw the orders, its officials almost jumped down the White House throat. So the orders were changed to apply only to aviation gasoline and No. 1 scrap iron, though later modified to include all grades of scrap.

This debate over appeasing Japan has continued inside the cabinet ever since. The state department has contended that to cut off oil meant an immediate Japanese attack on the Dutch East Indies—which has oil.

The Ickes-Knox-Stimson-Morgenthau group has claimed first that the Dutch East Indies were pretty well defended, that it would take Japan four months to seize them, and that Japan did not have enough oil to operate her fleet that long.

Also the British fleet then was better able to help defend the Dutch and Singapore. Now it isn't. Also we had far more ships in the Pacific at that time. Now some are at Iceland.

So it looks as if we appeased Japan until she got ready to pick her own sweet time as to the best moment to head toward the Dutch Indies.

* * *

Bombard Tokyo.

NAVAL strategists make no secret as to what they would do to curb Japan. They consider it foolhardy and suicide to send a lot of U. S. warships across the vast expanse of ocean to Singapore or the Dutch East Indies.

They figure we are going to get into the war anyway, and it is good strategy to deal knockout blows in the very first round. They favor sending waves of U. S. bombers from the Philippines to raze the paper and bamboo cities of Tokyo, Yokohoma, Kobe and Osaka. They also favor sending the fleet, plus airplane carriers to the coast of Japan.

They favor doing this immediately. There is no use, say the navy men, of punching at a man's legs when you can strike for his heart.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

POLITICOS of both parties are watching with keen interest the attempted comeback campaign of former Representative Tom Amlie of Wisconsin, running for the seat of the late Representative Boles. Reason for their interest is that Amlie, a fighting Progressive, is making the race as a Democrat, an experiment that if successful will be followed in next year's regular primary by a number of other Progressive party leaders who are fed up with the isolationist-appeasement stand of the LaFollette brothers. This bolt is being warmly encouraged by Wisconsin Democratic leaders. . . . While army brasshats were arguing over the merits of gliders, a group of National Youth Administration students near Chelsea, Mich., built two latest model gliders and have begun the construction of several more.

A Farmer's Diary

On a Valley Farm

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I want to escape from the world as it seems to be today, a drive through the hill country provides real relaxation. The narrow roads are quiet. I drive for miles without meeting a single car.

The other afternoon I drove through cutover timber land, where both sides of the road were shaded by shrubs and occasional tall hickories or oaks met overhead to form an arching bower.

Cicadae shrilled loudly in the summer heat, and crickets chirped in great profusion. At the top of the ridge I stopped to enjoy the view.

A gray farmhouse was hidden among the sheltering trees of a deep, short valley. Three milk pails hung above a bench beside an old log springhouse, gleamed in the sun. Four milk cows and two calves grazed in the low green pasture bordered on the highest ground by dark green woods. Two of the cattle had bells and each time they tore off a short sweet bit of grass the bells would ring in unison, then change to a discordant dribble.

A little colt, perhaps three months old, bounded from the edge of the woods, crossed the brook, and turned quickly about, his sleek black coat gleaming in the light, his baby head held high, as he gave an eager, expectant whinner. Then I heard a boy whistle shrilly along the ridge, and presently the dark bay team appeared, with the boy astride the mare of the homegoing team—the one whose colt was whinnering from the pasture.

The boyish whistle was not pure harmony, but from a distance, across the valley, it echoed pleasingly and seemed to tell of lighthearted, carefree hope.

The screen door slammed and a girl of 12 or so came across the porch. Her face and arms were tanned. She wore a big straw hat and two long dark dangling braids. She started down the lane toward the cows, and as she went her voice broke into song . . . A melody as clear and rich as the cardinal that answered from the hill. I heard faint echoes of the childish voice, like rich overtones, ring back from each tall slope.

The herd lifted their heads and stoood still until she came near. Then they turned and walked sedately toward the barn, along a bare, well trodden path.

As I drove on the scene lingered in my mind. That farm, I thought, where a boy whistles at his work and a girl goes down the valley singing, to bring the cows, is producing more than grain and stock—it is adding charm and peace to the world today, and immeasurable hope and poise to our American future.

MANSFIELD MAN TO AID DEFENSE ORDER AWARDS

Routzon, C. of C. Secretary, on Committee to Help Place Federal Contracts.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed a member of an Ohio Commercial Secretaries committee which will aid federal administrators in placing government orders.

Routzon was appointed as one of seven Ohio Chamber secretaries yesterday by C. E. Humphreys, executive secretary, Van Wert, to confer with Herman A. Lind, administrator of the Ohio Defense Contract service for the Fourth Federal Reserve district.

Lind suggested that Humphreys appoint the committee to meet with him at an early date "to consider matters of considerable importance, relative to the defense program, which will be of mutual benefit to the communities we serve."

The Mansfield chamber secretary said he had accepted his appointment and was "glad of an opportunity to be of greater assistance and service to the national defense program and Mansfield industries."

Appointed with Routzon were Dallas Hostetler, Canton, chairman; Delmer Starkey, Columbus; Don Dawson, Warren; Stanley Grove, Toledo; Ross Packard, Youngstown, and Harry Bennett, Akron.

The committee is made up of men who understood the industrial facilities and capacities of their district. Routzon and other members of the committee will be called on to aid not only in placing contracts in their representative cities but in neighboring ones.

LIST FOOD FOR STAMP BUYING

Federal Representative Here Says 18 Articles Can Be Purchased By Reliefers.

Richland countians who use government food stamps will have a list of 18 articles of food from which to purchase their supplies during August, L. B. von Spach, local stamp plan representative, announced today.

New articles on the list include fresh pears, plums, prunes, and apples, and enriched wheat flour. The enriched flour, it was said, includes health-building vitamin concentrates.

In addition to these articles, the available foods will include:

Raisins, corn meal, eggs, wheat flour, self-rising flour, whole wheat flour, dried prunes, enriched self-rising flour, dry beans, hominy grits, all fresh vegetables, oranges and peaches.

Pork and lard, obtainable this month will not be sold for blue stamps in August, von Spach said. They may still be purchased with orange stamps, however, he added.

Melons or processed vegetables, including frozen, canned, dried, or pickled garden produce, are not included in the fresh vegetable classification, it was pointed out.

The stamp plan went into effect early this month in Richland county. It provides for the use of stamps as money by persons receiving state or federal funds as pensions or as direct relief.

Hitch-Hiker Held To Grand Jury In Theft Of Car Here

Joseph Pawkstaipis, Buffalo hitch-hiker, charged with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, pleaded not guilty yesterday upon arraignment before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court.

The Buffalo youth was arrested in Columbus Friday after Mansfield police had forwarded a message that he had stolen the car of a Pittsburgh salesman from a downtown hotel garage.

T. F. Kennedy, the salesman, told police early Friday that he had picked Pawstaipis up near Cleveland and allowed him to drive the car to Mansfield. Here the car was put in a garage while Kennedy spent the night in a hotel. He discovered the auto gone from the garage in the morning.

After reporting the theft, Kennedy left the city without leaving a forwarding address. Police are still endeavoring to locate him to return his car.

Pawkstaipis was remanded to the county jail in default of $1,500 bail.

Air Thriller.

"Forced Landing," Richard Arlen's sky drama opening at the Madison Wednesday is an expose of "Fifth Columnists" of the air. The action takes place on an island off the Pacific coast, a locale where saboteurs mysteriously hover above the clouds and pounce upon ships carrying supplies and payrolls to the native defense workers. Arlen, Hollywood's ace pilot among actors, does some plain and fancy flying in the picture and the cast includes Nils Asther, Eva Gabor, Evelyn Brant and J. Carroll Naish. "Passenger From Hongkong," the companion picture has Lucille Fairbanks and Keith Douglas in a story about Americans trapped in Hong Kong.

Frank Story.

Released at this time to cooperate with the widespread program to stamp out social diseases by frank discussion of a subject heretofore considered unmentionable, "Damaged Goods," showing at the Ritz, tells a dramatic story. The play deals with the tragedy that marks the marriage of a young couple when one falls victim to the scourge and refuses to heed reputable advice. Pedro De Cordoba and Phyllis Barry are in the cast. "A Short In the Dark," with Ricardo Cortez, Nan Wynn and William Lundigan is the second picture.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

WHEN I remarked in this space some days ago that Broadway and its environs — to say nothing of its beautiful feminine inhabitants—seemed to be experiencing a dearth of orchids, I was immediately set upon with so many indignant letters, scrolls and telegrams from allegedly orchid - bedecked ladies that I began to suspect myself of artificially stimulating my own fan mail by over-provocative writing.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Where were my eyes, they wanted to know—in the back of my head, if any?

Did I, they demanded, know an orchid when I saw one, or had I been brought up on begonias and other simple garden flowers? Was I nearsighted, or just suffering from floral astigmatism?

* * *

All I had said was that I hadn't noticed many orchids around the night spots recently, although a few gardenias, daisies, camellias and other blooms seemed to be in evidence.

Then the postman arrived. "So you haven't seen any orchids lately" hissed a miss who signed herself "Autumn Deb."

"Well, maybe you haven't seen any at 42nd Street and Broadway, but if you will come around to the Park Avenue clubs, you'll see some. I have three steady beaux and ten semi-steady (yes, in spite of the draft!) and I get an average of two to five corsages of orchids a night. My bathtub is full of orchids."

A "Panama Hattie" chorine wrote: "You must be hanging around in those East Side joints, no wonder you never see any orchids. Don't you know that when playboys buy orchids at $10 a piece, they send them to girls in shows? That's theatrical tradition."

* * *

Gertrude Niesen, that Newport post-deb, wired: "So you saw me wearing daisies. That's because daisies don't tell. The last orchid I wore, told. Love, Gert."

Patricia Garfield, the model, cabled from Cape Cod: "As I write this I am wearing three orchids, and I have two more in the icebox. They look great on a playsuit. What do you mean orchids are scarce?"

Okay, girls, I know what you mean. Last night at "Arsenic and Old Lace," there was a whole bunch of orchids wearing a girl—one of Tommy Manville's, I think.

* * *

Not since "Love Crazy" have I seen a comedy film I liked better than "Tom, Dick and Harry." That makes you wistfully wish Hollywood would do it more often. Marionettes fascinate me. I never quite get over my childhood belief that they're real creatures.

Prettiest girl ever to hit technicolor is Greer Garson. And pretty in such a ladylike, un-cinema way, too. . . . Funny to see girls flaunting their sun-tans, as if they were due to some special distinction, instead of just exposure.

Personally, I think that except for blondes with brown eyes, the fair sex looks better when it's fair. . . .

* * *

The best entertainers around Manhattan these days don't work for the proverbial "coffee and cake"—they work for fish! They're the six sea lions currently cavorting in the Prometheus Fountain pool in Rockefeller Plaza, and their show is something not to miss. I've noticed that the bigger the crowd, the harder they work to get laughs, which is axiomatic of all the big comics.

Brightest-eyed Summer visitor to our town is Annabella. Looks like she's full of vitamins. . . . I hear Eddy Duchin is the biggest thing to hit Rio since the samba.

If it's really true that Paul Draper and Joan Crawford are going to do a joint song-and-dance concert, I want to be the first subscriber. Joan probably has a lovely voice, but she has always seemed so shy about making public appearances and displaying her talents—even her acting talent—that I can't picture her giving a concert.

I always thought it was her lack of confidence (which isn't justified by her fine performances in the movies recently) that kept her from doing a Broadway play.

* * *

New York's friendliest citizens are the hack drivers—especially in the summer, when the visiting firemen give the cabbies a chance to expand on the joys and trials of life in our city.

GIRL KIDNAPED, COMPANION TIED UP BY ATTACKER

17-Year-Old Celina Senior Held Four Hours By Assailant.

CELINA— (AP) —A pretty 17-year-old Celina high school senior was kidnaped and raped early today, Sheriff Bruce Barber reported, by a man who tied up her escort and dumped him in a corncrib.

Barber said the girl, blond Betty Hauk, was released two blocks from her home nearly four hours after the assailant accosted her and Urban Kaup, 18, of Coldwater while they sat in an automobile stopped on an open highway beside Grand Reservoir inside Celina.

The state highway patrol, sheriff's deputies and private citizens were spreading a blockade throughout this western Ohio region when the girl was returned to Celina in Kaup's automobile and set free, the sheriff said. She was placed under the care of a physician.

Barber said that Kaup and the girl told him this story:

After forcing his way into the automobile, the assailant made Kaup drive several miles from the city, tied him up and dumped him in a corncrib on a farm. Then he drove about the countryside, assaulted the girl, returned her here, and disappeared in Kaup's automobile.

Kaup, released by un unidentified farmer who heard his yells for help, telephoned the sheriff. The highway patrol immediately was notified and joined the hunt.

Miss Hauk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hauk.

TENNIS PLAYERS HELD

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—(UP)—Two tennis players were held today on charges of raping Claire Beringer, 17, a beautiful blond model, at the point of a gun.

They are Jack March, 21, of Pelham, and Robert Decker, 22, a student at Miami university, Miami, Fla. Both pleaded not guilty in police court and their hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

Miss Beringer told police March had drawn a gun while they were parked in his car and ordered Decker to rape her. He watched, laughing and gesturing with the gun, she said, while Decker raped her four times.

She said she had met March and Decker at the Pelham Country club, where she had gone with William Thields of Rye. Thields left and she remained, taking soft drinks while the men had beer and highballs, she said.

Miss Beringer told reporters she had known Decker for some time, and had refused several times to marry him.

Decker is the son of John Decker of Clearwater, Fla. He has played professional tennis in Florida, New York and New England. He has been a guest at March's home for a month while they participated in tennis tournaments in West Chester and New England.

Up and Down the Street

Tom Wright's automobile recently came out second best in an argument with a bull. Wright left his car in a field along Nashville road while he picked some berries. Returning, he found a bull not only had broken the top and glass of the car, but had also played crinkle fender with the auto's fenders. Garagemen estimated repair charges at $30.

Members of Mansfield's Company F of the Ohio State Guard must enjoy their weekly drill periods. Tonight the guardsmen will hold their fifth drill in the month although the state provides payment for only four drills monthly. Capt. Glenn L. Bierly announced that the men voted unanimously to hold their regular drill period tonight regardless of the lack of pay. For the first time, the members will drill with rifles which will be handed out at tonight's meeting.

* * *

While the rest of the town sweltered through some of the summer's hottest weather, Postmaster Herman Homburger was worrying about Christmas shopping. With defense shipping upsetting railroad schedules and cramming every available railroad car, Homburger warned that shoppers will really have to "do their Christmas shopping early" this year if they expect their parcels to arrive in time for the holiday. "And remember, Homburger warned, "it's 148 days until Christmas."

As an additional means of keeping the reading public posted on new titles the Mansfield Public library is introducing a new lobby display feature called "Keeping Up With the Weireds Family." Book suggestions for the entire family are made through the exhibit of brightly-bound covers and cartoon figures under the supervision of Mrs. Vaughn Pennell, Newman Street school librarian.

SENATE, HOUSE LEADERS SURE OF APPROVAL

Administration Forces Throw Full Power Behind Measure For Longer Training.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration leaders in both chambers of congress threw their influence today behind presidentially requested legislation to extend the military training period of selectees, national guardsmen and reserves.

The house military committee was called into executive session to consider a service extension resolution paralleling in most respects the one approved by the senate military affairs committee last week.

Chairman May (D. Ky.) of the house committee forecast approval of the measure, but changed in at least one particular from the senate, form, to insure continuation of the guardsmen. May said the war department feared the senate version lacked specific authorization fo retaining the members of the guard in service beyond one year.

Senate passage of the measure appeared certain. White House strategists made a quick canvass of the membership yesterday and declared opponents could muster no more than 30 votes out of 95.

The war department had asked that congress declare a national emergency, but the senate military committee declined to approve the request. However, a statement was written into the extension bill declaring that the national interest was imperilled.

A compromise version of legislation to defer the training of selective service registrants 28 or older was expected to be called up in the house today. The measure also authorizes the president to take over defense plants when production is interrupted.

CULT CHARGED WITH BEATING

Member Tells Court Act To Drive Out 'Demons' Was One of 'Love.'

DAYTON —(U.P.)— A member of a religious cult, charged with beating Merlin Hulse to drive out "demons," testified last night before Magistrat Paul Sherer that their act had been one of "love."

"Our restraint of Merlin Hulse was one of love," said Mrs. Ethel Redding, one of three members of the North Ridge religious cult, accused of beating Hulse to prevent his severing relations with the organization.

It was because of our desire to aid him that we felt it necessary to hold him," Mrs. Redding testified.

Hulse has charged that Mrs. Redding, her husband, Roland, and Rober Leonard kept him a prisoner in the Redding home for two days and beat him.

Hulse's wife, Mrs. Gathleen Hulse, testified for the defense, stating that Redding and Leonard had not beaten her husband.

"We only prayed for him and restrained him from leaving," she said, but added that her husband had asked for a physician after he was allegedly beaten.

The court was informed by Mary Ellen Miller, housekeeper at the Redding home, that Hulse was considered a "prophet" in the church. He would go into a trance, speak in a strange language and then translate his "prophecy" into English, she said.

RICHLAND SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR VETS WILL GO TO REUNION

Mansfield and Richland county Spanish-American War veterans and their families will be represented at the 43rd annual reunion of the Eighth Ohio Volunteer Infantry association to be held in Columbus, Sunday, Aug. 31, and Sept. 1.

The program will open Sunday at 2:15 p. m. with a brief service at the McKinley monument followed by the main memorial service in the senate chamber of the state house, according to tentative program plans announced by George T. Blake, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Sunday night a stag campfire will be held in the club rooms of Ben W. Hough post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 36 West Gay street.

While the campfire is under way the ladies attending the reunion will be feted at a party given at a Columbus hotel.

The regimental reunion and business meeting will be held Monday night when members of the various companies will be given opportunity to speak.

Mansfield, in Company M, had one of the 12 home stations of the Eighth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. The company mobilized for service in the war with Spain at Akron, April 26, 1898, and was mustered out at Wooster, Nov. 21, of the same year.

RULE TRAPPER DEATH SUICIDE

Death of Recluse Found Chained In Cabin Called Suicide.

CENTRAL CITY Colo.—(U.P.)— The death of Joe Modetz, 55, a recluse trapper who starved while he was chained to a bunk in his lonely mountain cabin, was declared officially today to be suicide.

The gaunt body of Modetz, who had called himself "Joe Snyder" for the last 20 years, was discovered Sunday, at least three months after he died.

"We found the door had been jammed from the inside," Deputy District Attorney R. R. Carr said. "The death is plainly a suicide and the case is closed as far as our office is concerned."

HONOR PASTOR

Three Congregations Hold Event For Rev. Nevin Stover.

Congregations of three churches honored their new pastor, Rev. Nevin Stover and his wife at a reception Monday night held on the lawn of Clay Memorial Lutheran church at Amoy, with more than 100 persons in attendance.

Mrs. Ray Kirkpatrick, president of the missionary society, presented the Stovers with a gift in behalf of the churches. Rev. Stover is pastor of Oakland, Shiloh and Clay churches.

116 YEARS OLD

SHREVEPORT, La.— (INS) —A history student, roaming through the halls of Centenary college, found an inscription that Centenary was founded in 1825. A perusal of old educational institutions in early America revealed that no other college had been founded west of the Mississippi river up to that time. Centenary now claims that distinction.

Ford, 78 Tomorrow Reiterates His Hatred For War

DETROIT —(U.P.)—Henry Ford veteran leader of the world's automobile industry, today reiterated his hatred for war but foresaw a "federation of the whole world" as the result of the present world conflict.

Ford expressed his oft-repeated feeling toward war in a formal statement on the eve of his 78th birthday.

"I have always hated war," Ford said. "I've never hated it more than I do today."

Ford, whose peace ship to end the first World war and "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas," failed, blamed "about 100" profit-seeking munitions makers for current world conditions but expressed belief that an unprecedented world tolerance will result from the present wars.

"People," he said, "are beginning to see that you can't build anything permanent on hate.

"The world is learning tolerance as never before. It is beginning to see that there is a need on earth for every race."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—A gracious note has passed from the local commerce scene, perhaps never to return. The world moves on, and John Miljan likes the movies.

There are filling stations, as you know, and filling stations. This was something extra-special in the line, out there on Sunset near the ocean.

It wasn't the physical trappings of the place, which are still there, and it wasn't so much the smiling service idea ("Massage while you wait, sir?") which is pretty common everywhere. It was just that this station believed in that little personal touch which (I think I'm quoting somebody's ad) means so much.

John Miljan, working in the movies again on "An Obliging Young Lady," was a little sad about it. He reminisced:

"We had a great following out there. Nine men to service the cars, and whenever I could I'd go out and stick around to say "hello." The picture people in the neighborhood knew it was one station where they could always talk pictures. We used to sell gas regularly to Joan Crawford, Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, most of the people around that way...

* * *

"And the dog food department. Bill Wellman was always running out, so we stocked up, and pretty soon a lot of folks were depending on us to feed their dogs and cats. We carried birdseed, too...

"And then there was the pet exchange. That just happened. One day a lady brought in a hurt squirrel that had fallen from a tree. She had it in a box and had fed it, and didn't know what to do with it so we took it in. I've still got that one, at home. But the other animals were just swapped around. One time we had a burro—Jack Holt took it—and a dog, a fox, a pheasant, chickens and ducks all at once.

This sort of thing couldn't last, of course. Miljan's partner heard the call of the Marines, and the actor, with movie work picking up, answered that call. A commercial chain has the old trading post and gossip center now, and you can't get dog food or birdseed there any more—just gas and oil and the usual things. "If Jack Holt drove up and asked the smiling-service lads if they had any burros around today, the smiles would probably freeze — politely, of course.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

WHEN I remarked in this space some days ago that Broadway and its environs — to say nothing of its beautiful feminine inhabitants—seemed to be experiencing a dearth of orchids, I was immediately set upon with so many indignant letters, scrolls and telegrams from allegedly orchid-bedecked ladies that I began to suspect myself of artificially stimulating my own fan mail by over-provocative writing.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Where were my eyes, they wanted to know—in the back of my head, if any?

Did I, they demanded, know an orchid when I saw one, or had I been brought up on begonias and other simple garden flowers? Was I nearsighted, or just suffering from floral astigmatism?

* * *

All I had said was that I hadn't noticed many orchids around the night spots recently, although a few gardenias, daisies, camellias and other blooms seemed to be in evidence.

Then the postman arrived. "So you haven't seen any orchids lately" hissed a miss who signed herself "Autumn Deb."

"Well, maybe you haven't seen any at 42nd Street and Broadway, but if you will come around to the Park Avenue clubs, you'll see some. I have three steady beaux and ten semi-steady (yes, in spite of the draft!) and I get an average of two to five corsages of orchids a night. My bathtub is full of orchids."

A "Panama Hattie" chorine wrote: "You must be hanging around in those East Side joints, no wonder you never see any orchids. Don't you know that when playbbys buy orchids at $10 a piece, they send them to girls in shows? That's theatrical tradition."

* * *

Gertrude Niesen, that Newport post-deb, wired: "So you saw me wearing daisies. That's because daisies don't tell. The last orchid I wore, told. Love, Gert."

Patricia Garfield, the model, cabled from Cape Cod: "As I write this I am wearing three orchids, and I have two more in the icebox. They look great on a playsuit. What do you mean orchids are scarce?"

Okay, girls, I know what you mean. Last night at "Arsenic and Old Lace," there was a whole bunch of orchids wearing a girl—one of Tommy Manville's, I think.

* * *

Not since "Love Crazy" have I seen a comedy film I liked better than "Tom, Dick and Harry." That makes you wistfully wish Hollywood would do it more often. Marionettes fascinate me. I never quite get over my childhood belief that they're real creatures.

Prettiest girl ever to hit technicolor is Greer Garson. And pretty in such a ladylike, un-cinema way, too. . . . Funny to see girls flaunting their sun-tans, as if they were due to some special distinction, instead of just exposure.

Personally, I think that except for blondes with brown eyes, the fair sex looks better when it's fair. . . .

* * *

The best entertainers around Manhattan these days don't work for the proverbial "coffee and cake"—they work for fish! They're the six sea lions currently cavorting in the Prometheus Fountain pool in Rockefeller Plaza, and their show is something not to miss. I've noticed that the bigger the crowd, the harder they work to get laughs, which is axiomatic of all the big comics.

Brightest-eyed Summer visitor to our town is Annabella. Looks like she's full of vitamins. . . . I hear Eddy Duchin is the biggest thing to hit Rio since the samba.

If it's really true that Paul Draper and Joan Crawford are going to do a joint song-and-dance concert, I want to be the first subscriber. Joan probably has a lovely voice, but she has always seemed so shy about making public appearances and displaying her talents—even her acting talent—that I can't picture her giving a concert.

I always thought it was her lack of confidence (which isn't justified by her fine performances in the movies recently) that kept her from doing a Broadway play.

* * *

New York's friendliest citizens are the hack drivers—especially in the summer, when the visiting firemen give the cabbies a chance to expand on the joys and trials of life in our city.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—A gracious note has passed from the local commerce scene, perhaps never to return. The world moves on, and John Miljan likes the movies.

There are filling stations, as you know, and filling stations. This was something extra-special in the line, out there on Sunset near the ocean.

It wasn't the physical trappings of the place, which are still there, and it wasn't so much the smiling service idea ("Massage while you wait, sir?") which is pretty common everywhere. It was just that this station believed in that little personal touch which (I think I'm quoting somebody's ad) means so much.

John Miljan, working in the movies again on "An Obliging Young Lady," was a little sad about it. He reminisced:

"We had a great following out there. Nine men to service the cars, and whenever I could I'd go out and stick around to say "hello." The picture people in the neighborhood knew it was one station where they could always talk pictures. We used to sell gas regularly to Joan Crawford, Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, most of the people around that way...

* * *

"And the dog food department. Bill Wellman was always running out, so we stocked up, and pretty soon a lot of folks were depending on us to feed their dogs and cats. We carried birdseed, too...

"And then there was the pet exchange. That just happened. One day a lady brought in a hurt squirrel that had fallen from a tree. She had it in a box and had fed it and didn't know what to do with it so we took it in. I've still got that one, at home. But the other animals were just swapped around. One time we had a burro—Jack Holt took it—and a dog, a fox, a pheasant, chickens and ducks all at once.

This sort of thing couldn't last, of course. Miljan's partner heard the call of the Marines, and the actor, with movie work picking up, answered that call. If Jack Holt drove up and asked the smiling-service lads if they had any burros around today, the smiles would probably freeze — politely, of course.

GIRL KIDNAPED, COMPANION TIED UP BY ATTACKER

17-Year-Old Celina Senior Held Four Hours By Assailant.

CELINA— (AP) —A pretty 17-year-old Celina high school senior was kidnaped and raped early today, Sheriff Bruce Barber reported, by a man who tied up her escort and dumped him in a corncrib.

Barber said the girl, blond Betty Hauk, was released two blocks from her home nearly four hours after the assailant accosted her and Urban Kaup, 18, of Coldwater while they sat in an automobile stopped on an open highway beside Grand Reservoir inside Celina.

The state highway patrol, sheriff's deputies and private citizens were spreading a blockade throughout this western Ohio region when the girl was returned to Celina in Kaup's automobile and set free, the sheriff said. She was placed under the care of a physician.

Barber said that Kaup and the girl told him this story:

After forcing his way into the automobile, the assailant made Kaup drive several miles from the city, tied him up and dumped him in a corncrib on a farm. Then he drove about the countryside, assaulted the girl, returned her here, and disappeared in Kaup's automobile.

Kaup, released by un unidentified farmer who heard his yells for help, telephoned the sheriff. The highway patrol immediately was notified and joined the hunt.

Miss Hauk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hauk.

TENNIS PLAYERS HELD

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—(UP)—Two tennis players were held today on charges of raping Claire Beringer, 17, a beautiful blond model, at the point of a gun.

They are Jack March, 21, of Pelham, and Robert Decker, 22, a student at Miami university, Miami, Fla. Both pleaded not guilty in police court and their hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

Miss Beringer told police March had drawn a gun while they were parked in his car and ordered Decker to rape her. He watched, laughing and gesturing with the gun, she said, while Decker raped her four times.

She said she had met March and Decker at the Pelham Country club, where she had gone with William Thields of Rye. Thields left and she remained, taking soft drinks while the men had beer and highballs, she said.

Miss Beringer told reporters she had known Decker for some time, and had refused several times to marry him.

Decker is the son of John Decker of Clearwater, Fla. He has played professional tennis in Florida, New York and New England. He has been a guest at March's home for a month while they participated in tennis tournaments in West Chester and New England.

CULT CHARGED WITH BEATING

Member Tells Court Act To Drive Out 'Demons' Was One of 'Love.'

DAYTON —(UP)— A member of a religious cult, charged with beating Merlin Hulse to drive out "demons," testified last night before Magistrat Paul Sherer that their act had been one of "love."

"Our restraint of Merlin Hulse was one of love," said Mrs. Ethel Redding, one of three members of the North Ridge religious cult, accused of beating Hulse to prevent his severing relations with the organization.

It was because of our desire to aid him that we felt it necessary to hold him," Mrs. Redding testified.

Hulse has charged that Mrs. Redding, her husband, Roland, and Rober Leonard kept him a prisoner in the Redding home for two days and beat him.

Hulse's wife, Mrs. Gathleen Hulse, testified for the defense, stating that Redding and Leonard had not beaten her husband.

"We only prayed for him and restrained him from leaving," she said, but added that her husband had asked for a physician after he was allegedly beaten.

The court was informed by Mary Ellen Miller, housekeeper at the Redding home, that Hulse was considered a "prophet" in the church. He would go into a trance, speak in a strange language and then translate his "prophecy" into English, she said.

Mansfield and Richland county Spanish-American War veterans and their families will be represented at the 43rd annual reunion of the Eighth Ohio Volunteer Infantry association to be held in Columbus, Sunday, Aug. 31, and Sept. 1.

With defense shipping upsetting railroad schedules and cramming every available railroad car, Homburger warned that shoppers will really have to "do their Christmas shopping early" this year if they expect their parcels to arrive in time for the holiday. "And remember, Homburger warned, "it's 148 days until Christmas."

The gaunt body of Modetz, who had called himself "Joe Snyder" for the last 20 years, was discovered Sunday, at least three months after he died.

116 YEARS OLD

SHREVEPORT, La.— (INS) —A history student, roaming through the halls of Centenary college, found an inscription that Centenary was founded in 1825. A perusal of old educational institutions in early America revealed that no other college had been founded west of the Mississippi river up to that time. Centenary now claims that distinction.

SENATE, HOUSE LEADERS SURE OF APPROVAL

Administration Forces Throw Full Power Behind Measure For Longer Training.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration leaders in both chambers of congress threw their influence today behind presidentially requested legislation to extend the military training period of selectees, national guardsmen and reserves.

The house military committee was called into executive session to consider a service extension resolution paralleling in most respects the one approved by the senate military affairs committee last week.

Chairman May (D. Ky.) of the house committee to cast approval of the measure, but changed in at least one particular from the senate, form, to insure continuation of the guardsmen. May said the war department feared the senate version lacked specific authorization to retaining the members of the guard in service beyond one year.

Senate passage of the measure appeared certain. White House strategists made a quick canvass of the membership yesterday and declared opponents could muster no more than 30 votes out of 95.

The war department had asked that congress declare a national emergency, but the senate military committee declined to approve the request. However, a statement was written into the extension bill declaring that the national interest was imperilled.

A compromise version of legislation to defer the training of selective service registrants 28 or older was expected to be called up in the house today. The measure also authorizes the president to take over defense plants when production is interrupted.

Ford, 78 Tomorrow Reiterates His Hatred For War

DETROIT —(U.P.)—Henry Ford veteran leader of the world's automobile industry, today reiterated his hatred for war but foresaw a "federation of the whole world" as the result of the present world conflict.

Ford expressed his oft-repeated feeling toward war in a formal statement on the eve of his 78th birthday.

"I have always hated war," Ford said. "I've never hated it more than I do today."

Ford, whose peace ship to end the first World war and "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas," failed, blamed "about 100" profit-seeking munitions makers for current world conditions but expressed belief that an unprecedented world tolerance will result from the present wars.

"People," he said, "are beginning to see that you can't build anything permanent on hate.

"The world is learning tolerance as never before. It is beginning to see that there is a need on earth for every race."

"Bum's Party" Held At Ashland By Girls' Club

Boys Like Girls To Be Feminine In Their Dress

Wives and sweethearts beware! Our soldier boys may yoo-hoo at girls in shorts but they'll boo if their best girls wear anything but dresses.

This was proven at Camp Upton, N. Y., recently when eight pretty girls modeled a group of New York creations in a fashion show at the camp "Opry House." During an interval in the presentation of dresses the girls stepped forth in shorts and slacks.

"Take 'em away. Get the hook." Vociferous young men cried amid stomping of feet, hisses and prolonged booings.

"Put 'em in dresses." "No pants," were other cries.

They meant what they said for enthusiastic were the cheers and shrill the whistles when blond Susann Shaw appeared in a misty blue gown of floating chiffon, softly draped over the shoulders and trimmed with pink silk roses, and when strikingly brunet Dusty Anderson came forth in a youthful, two-piece linen frock with back and sleeves of white cotton ribbing.

The boys stationed at Fort Custer in Battle Creek, Mich., are of a similar mind. They have expressed a definite preference for feminine types of women's clothes thumbing down anything that suggested a uniform.

"Please don't dress women in uniforms," one of them pleaded, "it's enough for men to have to wear them."

Mrs. Dorothy W. Anderson, executive director of the New York Dress Institute, in a recent interview warned that women's casualness of late is beginning to threaten their identities. She said functional clothes had their place; that sports attire was OK for the tennis courts, seaside or golf links; slacks were fine for outdoors in the country. Uniforms definitely have their place in the nation's great defense picture, she added, but the greater obligation of women in these times is to be feminine and decorative, just as their men want them.

Basic Clothes Are Always Practical for These Months

Shepherd's check suit in cotton tweed, a new fabric development for summer. The tailored cotton blouse buttons onto the gored skirt. Pleated white pique hat, cotton gloves and cotton mesh shoes.

By AMY PORTER
(AP Fashion Editor)

Summer's a time for whimsy in clothes. The sunshine undermines conservatism, sets you off on a path of gay experiment.

You try a lacey bowknot in your hair, you stick your dancing feet into pink ballet slippers, you consider a bare midriff evening frock.

In the daytime you'll need to keep your feet on the ground, more or less, by way of a good basic suit in some cool fabric—cotton, rayon or shantung. But from there on you can indulge in all the sparkle you like.

How about accessories in shocking pink shantung? Wouldn't they do your soul good for wear with a nice little tailored beige suit?

All-white accessories always hold their own for their daisy freshness. You might gather up a flock of washables—off-the-face hat of starched white pique, white cotton fringed bag, white cotton opera pumps, white gloves with fringed cuffs, and puffy white cotton rope necklace and bracelet.

Sweaters are copying the deep-V glamour-girl neckline that has proved so popular in blouses.

Do you like the look of starched white crochet? You can find it in sailor hats, dress pumps, short gloves.

The foreign look, for your leisure time, is achieved with yards of bright pique or denim or calico gathered to a snug waistline, plus a matching peasant blouse, or a lingerie blouse with a deep square neckline. This promises to be summer's playtime uniform — short or long, for day or evening.

One full-skirted dress is made with three pleated tiers, reaching the ground. The last tier comes off to make a daytime dress.

Keep cool and collected around town this summer in a glenplaid cotton suit and all-cotton accessories. Cardigan jacket, hopsacking blouse. Fringed bag, navy blue cotton mesh shoes, white pique hat.

Accessories Are In Patriotic Theme Today

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—In a staccato resume of the very latest in Hollywood fashions it's indicated:

That for every smart dress there's an equally smart button. Bette Davis is wearing a dressmaker suit in navy wool gabardine with fitted, medium length, jacket fastened with bright red cherries that look ripe enough to eat.

That the patriotic theme gets another salute in play wear. Bonita Granville showed up at the tennis matches, with Jackie Cooper, wearing a blue linen shirtmaker, one red and one white sock, and white slack sandals.

That the lace dress is in the limelight after 8 p. m. Loretta Young has been dancing in a gown with full bias skirt of rosy pink one-inch lace ruffles in two hundred rows on pink net. Olivia de Haviland's charming dinner gown of clinging beige chiffon has broad panels of beige chantilly set in skirt and bodice and forming caps over the shoulders.

That the leaf turban is a pleasant diversion. Worn by Hedda Hopper it shows small leaves of green dull straw shading into an autumnal brown. Hedda wears it with a light brown crepe dress adorned with a topaz and emerald brooch.

That sheer black chiffon hosiery is being worn again. Marlene Dietrich wears them in "Manpower" and with a pastel print, long black gloves and wide-brimmed black hat.

That heart-shaped jewelry indicates a sentimental frame of mind. Jane Wyman wears Ronald Reagan's anniversary gift of a heart-shaped amethyst ring. Joan Bennett proudly displays her ruby and diamond heart that opens to tiny pictures of her two daughters. Norma Shearer has a costume piece showing a "broken heart" of cabachon crystals including a large brooch and small earrings, the broken pieces hinged with invisible chains.

That the girls enjoy playing rainbow with their evening clothes. June Preisser has a lovely gown of five layers of translucent mousseline in pale pink, scarlet, blue, orchid and green posed one on the other.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, July 30.

A rather routine state of affairs is read from the prevailing planetary influences. The personal rather than business interests seem to occupy the attention, although public affairs of a social, humane, fraternal or community aspect, may succeed through cleverness, secret or tacit understandings, in which large corporations or organizations have prominent part. Such affiliation may develop peculiar or surprising angles, in which new ideas or problems are advanced by social, artistic or sentimental factors rather than strictly business tenets. But be alert to dubious entanglements or quarrels.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly active year, in which the personal equation may overshadow strictly commercial interests. Public, community or group action in connection with humanitarian, cultural or charitable organizations should prosper, especially if new ideas or novel forms of promotion be employed. But keep alert to peculiar or unexpected entanglements or duplicity and also shun tempest and confused or rash acts.

A child born on this day may have many interesting or uncommon talents which it may put to use for the public welfare, in social, educational or cultural lines. It may attain success by originality and engaging personality.

CHAPTER XX

"He looks so much older," Doris thought with a stab of pain. How handsome he was, how self-assured. Oh, how proud she would have been to be his wife! Doris noticed that though May was chattering gaily Jimmy did not look at her. In a few minutes he disappeared back into the lounge.

May, catching sight of Doris, made her way through the crowd to her side.

"Anyone meeting you?" she asked casually.

"No," Doris said evenly. "Why?"

"It's alway nice to be met," May said. "It's such a thrill to look down on the pier and see your friends—especially if one of them is somebody you care about."

Doris was instantly on her guard. What was May leading up to now?

As the ship hugged the dock, May excitedly pointed to a figure below. "See that girl? The blond in silver fox?"

Doris followed the pointing finger. The girl was tall and well-built, and she wore a magnificent fox coat and hat to match. Her long blond hair hung straight down over her shoulders. It was peculiar gold hair, the kind that has lost its lusture from too frequent bleaching. Her face though young, was as hard as nails. Her make-up was too extreme.

"She looks like an actress," Doris commented.

May laughed and a peculiar expression came into her green eyes.

"She is an actress, my dear! That's Jimmy's wife!"

"His wife?" Doris echoed in amazement. "But she went to Reno for a divorce."

"Well," May reminded her, "there's many a slip, you know. Maybe she changed her mind.

Why was May Whittier so pleased at Jimmy's wife making this sudden appearance? If May wanted Jimmy for herself, why wouldn't she resent the other girl's presence.

"There is something very strange about all this," Doris thought, but she said nothing to May. Instead she gazed below at the slender figure swathed in silver fox. She noted the hard eyes, the insolent mouth. So this was his wife! Tears came into Doris' eyes. Poor Jimmy! This would mean new trouble for him. What did this scheming woman want? Hadn't she gone through with the divorce? Had she changed her mind?

As Jimmy had feared, there were reporters on all sides. Doris saw them swarm about him on the pier, and at that moment Mrs. Jimmy Allen rushed through the circle and flung her arms about his neck. Doris saw the expression of repulsion and loathing that crossed his face. His surprise was evident, and though he pushed her from him almost roughly, it was too late. The cameras had caught the little scene. Doris saw that May had also taken it in, but far from looking jealous she seemed pleased. Could May have had anything to do with the sudden appearance of Jimmy's wife?

Doris was too confused to think. What did it matter now? But as she climbed into a taxi she turned for a last look at Jimmy.

"My poor darling!" she thought as she saw his furious blue eyes, his set jaw. "I'll always remember him like this. He looks so angry, so bitter, so defeated."

* * *

The journey to Detroit was uneventful and held no more place in her memory than a dream. She was disappointed that Bonnie had not come to the station to meet her.

It was a strange homecoming. All that had once been so familiar seemed odd to her more experienced eyes. Not until she was driving through the streets of Detroit to Mrs. Ames' boarding house did Doris realize how far away from it she had been. Had she really seen those magic ports of South America? Had she known a soft-spoken man named Ricardo Torres? And was Jimmy Allen a dream too? Doris felt that her adventures had happened to another girl. One she no longer knew. Two weeks ago her life had been full to the brim and now she was right back where she started from. How ironic and futile it was!

Wearily she got out of the taxi and went up the steps to the boarding house. Her landlady, rotund as ever, greeted her affectionately. Surveying her with bright birdlike eyes, she exclaimed, "Why Doris! I never expected to see you back here."

Doris put down her bag and looked about the hall. Everything was just the same. Shabby rug, worn-out stair carpet, and drooping flowers in a painted vase under the fringed lamp.

"I'm back to stay this time," she informed Mrs. Ames. "And I'll pay two months rent in advance just in case I don't get my job back."

Her landlady's eyes widened. "You've spent all that money."

"Yes," Doris admitted, wondering how she could have been so foolish.

"Mrs. Ames led the way to her old room. "Bonnie got married last week. They went off on their honeymoon."

So that was why Bonnie had not been at the train.

* * *

The room was lonely without her as Doris arranged her clothes in the old-fashioned wardrobe. How odd it seemed to see them here, where before only shabby dresses had hung.

Outside the small window she could see the branches of the bare trees shivering in the November wind. How far away from the tropical breeze of the Caribbean! The room, never too well heated, seemed unbearably cold. Doris threw her fur jacket about her shoulders as she arranged her toilet articles on the dresser. She wondered what had become of Roy Johnston in her absence. If ever she needed a friend, it was now.

After dinner Doris went to bed and drew the blankets high about her chin. It was hard to face the reality of this room, this existence. Her mind went back over the other rooms she had slept it. Gorgeous hotel rooms, her cozy cabin on the ship, rooms where every appointment gave her a feeling of luxuriousness. Now she was condemned forever to this shabby cubbyhole with its tiny window and torn wallpaper.

"It's clean and respectable," Mrs. Ames used to tell her complacently. And once that had been enough for Doris Newton. But the girl who had returned from South America was different. She was no longer an inexperienced girl who sold hosiery in Klane's basement. How could she come back when she had gone so far into another world?

"It's my own fault," Doris sighed, turning her face into the pillow. "I should have had more sense than to spend all my money."

Small comfort to think of that now! The five thousand dollars was gone. Jimmy was gone. And there was still her father to be reckoned with. Tomorrow she must go to the police. The thought of George Malone stopped her tears. Fury halted self-pity as she remembered this man who had deserted her mother — this man who lived by blackmail . . . perhaps worse.

The chill November wind swept through the room, a gloomy prophecy of winter. Doris lay very still, wondering, hoping, trying to believe that there was an answer for her and that someday she would find it.

The next day Bonnie appeared. She was driving Don's car.

"Darling!" she cried at the sight of Doris. "You don't know how glad I am to see you! We just got back from the lake this morning."

Doris embraced her affectionately. "Tell me all about everything," she said warmly. "Mrs. Ames told me you were married. How's Don?"

Bonnie said lightly, "He's fine. But I want to hear about your trip. Come on! Let's go over to my apartment."

* * *

Bonnie's apartment was newly furnished and Doris could see that Bonnie was pleased with her choice. She had married Don for security and she had gotten it. The car, the new apartment, Bonnie's clothes all indicated that she had gotten her share of the bargain.

Accepting a cigaret from her friend, Doris saw the diamond wedding ring. "You're not sorry?" she asked.

"Not a bit," Bonnie sad firmly. "I knew what I wanted and I got it. It may seem hard to you, Doris, but I'll be a good wife, and Don loves me."

"You still don't love him?"

Bonnie's eyelashes swept her plump cheek. "What is love? Girls like us are beaten before we start, Doris. Working at Klane's basement we never have a chance. Don took me away from all that. I don't have to work any more or worry either. He's got a good job and he'll be getting another raise soon. I'm safe, Doris! You ought to know how much that means."

Her voice was so earnest that Doris, for a moment, wondered if Bonnie had taken the right road after all.

"I don't know," she said slowly. "Love has always seemed terribly important to me—but now . . ." And she told Bonnie the story of the trip. The strange story of Jimmy Allen and May Whittier. George Malone, and the showgirl wife who had met Jimmy at the dock.

"You poor kid" Bonnie said when she had finished. "And after you'd spent all that money too!"

"I'm scared, Bonnie. What if I can't get my old job back?"

Bonnie patted her arm. "Don't worry, honey Don and I will help!"

Doris smiled through her tears. "It's sweet of you, Bonnie, but I couldn't let you do that. This is my problem and I'll have to work it out myself."

It was not until afternoon, as they were having a cup of tea, that Doris remembered to ask about Roy Johnston.

"It's too bad you threw him over," Bonnie said, munching a piece of chocolate cake. "He would have been a good husband."

Doris smiled. "I happen to be in love with another man."

"Okay," Donnie said briefly. "Then you won't mind knowing that Roy is married. Some girl he met right after you left."

* * *

Doris was surprised, and a little disappointed. She had hoped that Roy would be her friend. But why should he? After all, she had rejected him. What could she expect?

"Now about your father," Bonnie was saying practically. "When are you going to the police? You know if I were you, Doris, I wouldn't do it. Why should you get yourself involved on his account?"

Doris ground out her cigaret in Bonnie's new monogramed crystal ash tray. "I've got to do it, Bonnie. I hate it, and I keep putting it off, but I have to do it. After all, he is a criminal."

"But you're not protecting him or hiding him. Just because he told you he was wanted by the police doesn't make you responsible."

"I wish I didn't know about it, but since I do I've got to tell them, no matter what happens to me."

"And what about Jimmy Allen?"

"I don't know," Doris confessed miserably. "I don't know whether his wife divorced him or not. But I suppose she didn't or she wouldn't have met the boat."

"If you ask me, May Whittier had sometnihg to do with that," Bonnie said stoutly. "I'd like to wring her neck."

Doris sighed. "There's no use thinking about it now. It's all in the past. I suppose I'll have to forget Jimmy—but oh, I can't! I just can't!"

"There's no man who's important enough to wreck your life, honey," her friend told her. "Love isn't so important. The main thing is to have a man who loves you—someone who will be good to you and take care of you."

Doris dabbed at her wet eyes. "I'm afraid I'll never agree on that, Bonnie. Love is everything to me. If you'd ever met a man like Jimmy Allen you'd know what I mean."

For a moment there was silence as the two girls stared thoughtfully at each other. The bright sunshine streamed in the west windows and fell cheerfully on Bonnie's new furniture. She seemed so safe, so secure, that Doris wondered . . . and Bonnie, as if sensing her thoughts, said suddenly, "If I were you, Doris, I'd marry Ricardo Torres! That might be the answer to everything!"

Molded Salads Attractive For Lunch

By BETSY NEWMAN

A MOLDED fish or cheese salad served for a main dish for luncheon or dinner is economical, and as we are all planning to practice economy from now on to help national defense, as well as ourselves, let us file the following recipe to use rather frequently after we first try it out on the family. Any good American cheese may be used.

Today's Menu.

Cheese Salad Creamed Potatoes
Butter Beans
Coffiee Nut Muffins
Fresh Berries or Fruit Iced Tea

* * *

Cheese Salad.

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
1 cup cold water
2 tablespoons tomato ketchup
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 slices Iceberg lettuce
¼ lb. cheese

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add seasonings, ketchup, lemon juice, vinegar and cold water. Chill until it begins to thicken. Cut lettuce into ¼-inch cubes and place in bottom of mold, crumble cheese and add to thickened gelatin; pour into mold and chill until firm. Serves 8.

* * *

Coffee Nut Muffins.

3 cups pastry flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1¼ cups strong coffee
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 cup pecan nuts, broken

Sift dry ingredients together; beat eggs, add coffee and add to dry ingredients. Add melted shortening and nut meats. Bake in greased muffin tins in moderate oven at 400 degrees F. for about 20 to 25 minutes. This makes 12 large muffins.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE THAT SINGLETON

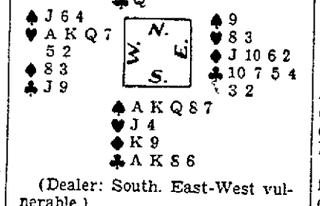
Ordinarily a singleton trump of secondary size, such as an 8, 9, 10 or jack, looks pretty worthless in your hand, when you are on the defense. You know the declarer is not going to finesse low enough for it to take a trick. Its sole value seems to lie in winning a trick by ruffing, or perhaps in making it possible for you to lead trumps once to limit declarer's ruffing. But it has a still additional value, in some cases, that of forcing the declarer to over-ruff with such a high trump that he establishes a trump trick in your partner's hand.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | 2 ♥ | 2 ♠ | Pass |
| 4 ♠ | | | |

East muffed a golden opportunity on this hand, at one table of the recent Westchester Country club invitation tournament in Rye, N. Y. West led the heart K, followed with the Q, and then the A, on which East discarded the club 2. West switched then to the diamond 8, and the declarer rolled in with an extra trick. After taking that with the K, he dropped trumps in three rounds, discarded a club on dummy's diamonds, cashed the club Q, returned to his own hand with a diamond ruff and took in his remaining spade and top clubs.

At another table, Miss Virginia Tucker and Mrs. G. Burling Prince, winners of the tournament, showed their keenness on defense. When the third high heart was led, Mrs. Prince ruffed it with her singleton trump, catching onto the reason for her partner repeating the suit while knowing the declarer could trump. That forced South to over-ruff with his A, which made it impossible for him to keep Miss Tucker from taking a trick later in trumps, holding him to exactly his contract.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

PHILIP VERITZEN'S frown deepened, while fine lines etched themselves deeply from his nose to his lips. I knew that his anger, while still strong against Stephen Redfield, was partly deflected against me.

"I fail to see the necessity," he said stiffly. "And—I hate to remind you, but you are a member of my organization, as the author of the play I have in production, just as is Redfield, who has the role opposite Mary's. Under those conditions, and taking into consideration the effrontery of Redfield's request, I think I am within my rights in asking obedience from you in this matter."

Madge Argues with Philip.

"Philip, dear," I said, trying to make the unfamiliar address sound easy and plausible, "if I tell you that I have discovered something about Stephen Redfield which—although I may be imagining the whole thing—may connect him, although ever so slightly, with the happening here tonight, don't you think I am justified in granting his request to see him? I am sure my father would wish me to find out what he wants, and to glean any information I can concerning him."

Philip Is Unyielding.

"But, good God!" he said. "If this is true, you will be in danger talking to Redfield. Your father would not permit it, neither will I."

"I shall not be in danger," I said, "for I want you and Mary to be here when he arrives."

"What good will that do?" he demanded. "He asked to see you alone."

"Will you listen to my plan?" I said. "I have only a minute."

"Yes," he said laconically, but patent distaste and reluctance invested the monosyllable.

"You and Mary will be standing at the door apparently ready to go, when he knocks," I said. "But first, I will set ajar that masked door from my bedroom to the other suite. Fortunately one cannot see that door from this room. The door from this room to my bedroom will be partly open also. When I open the door to Redfield, I want you both to greet him casually. I will ask him in, and bid you au revoir at the same time. Mary will say that she is coming back in twenty minutes. Then you both will go around to that other suite connecting with this, being very careful to make no noise, and remain there until Redfield goes."

"I don't like it," he said, but I realized that I had won, and had made him see not only that I would be in no danger, but that it was vital to find out what I could about Redfield.

"Neither do I," I answered, "but if he realizes you know he is here, there will be no possible danger from him for me. He is too well known a figure. He could not hope to escape the consequences of any violent action."

"And," Philip Veritzen said grimly, "we will be in the next suite, ready for any action that may seem necessary."

"I am sure none will be needed," I rejoined, and on the word Stephen Redfield's expected knock sounded on the door.

Keep Teeth Clean and Polished

You may fancy that your powder pad and lipstick are your closest beauty friends, but be not deceived. Of much greater importance is the toothbrush. Without white, highly polished and even teeth no girl need aspire to line up in the beauty chorus.

Mouth hygiene is important from the standpoint of the general health. Decayed teeth interfere with the mastication of food which in turn upsets the digestive motors, or brings on a condition of malnutrition. Infections of the teeth and gum are carried to other parts of the body, have been known to cause serious heart troubles.

We have no patience with the young lady who hangs around the shops so as to lug home becoming duds to wear, but waits until the last minute to visit the dentist. The longer she waits the more pain will she suffer, not only when the old buzzsaw is working, but when the bill comes in. The wise one seeks the services of the dentist twice a year, has a careful examination, repairs made. She feels very righteous and she has a right to feel that way. She is doing her duty by herself. She may have to cut down on cosmetics for awhile to keep the beauty budget balanced, but what of it?

There is always a possibility of tartar formation; a hard substance forms at the base of the teeth, causing inflamation and bleeding. These horrid mouth barnacles cannot be removed with the brush; only the dentist's instruments will dislodge them. Unless they are removed the gums will recede and pockets will form to attract bacteria.

The free use of the toothbrush after each meal and at bedtime may not eliminate decay, but it is an effective weapon for fighting it. Stagnant food particles are pounced upon by germs that exist in the mouth, an acid forms and this substance causes cavities to appear in the enamel of the teeth. If you are in the habit of having a candy binge in the middle of the afternoon, use the brush again.

There is a belief that diet has a good deal to do with healthy teeth. Calcium, it seems, is especially necessary for their well being. One gets this in milk, carrots, cheese, orange juice, spinach, celery and eggs. Vitamin D, it is said, is a good friend to human fangs, and that is found in butter, eggs and milk. Some specialists recommend Vitamin C as a good old standby to ward off mouth ills, and that comes to us in orange and lemon juice, lettuce and other vegetables.

The time has come when no beauty seeker can afford to be a finicky eater. She must have a varied diet, eat at regular hours, take enough food to supply the energy necessary for the days activities and no more. If she gorges she'll add poundage and will have to turn her thoughts to a reducing routine which most heavyweights find almost unbearable.

Spectator Sport Clothes For Summer Days

By JANE COCHRAN

NEW YORK—(INS)—If you're going to the races this summer, these are the clothes you'll be wearing—

Slim print dresses topped off by big-brimed flattering hats.

Jacket dresses in figured material with matching print jackets or full-length coat of a plain material.

The slender, sophisticated silhouette, moulded to the figure, with tucks or shirring giving ease of movement.

Smooth shoulders, very slightly padded and sleeves in all lengths to add variety to the wardrobe. Melon sleeves, raglan, "wing" sleeves and bishop sleeves alternate with the slim, tight-fitting types.

Big-brimmed hats that are logical and dramatic accents for the new slim silhouette. They'll be in very sheer straw, horsehair, stitched net or the time-honored straws and the predominant types are cartwheels and off-the-face models.

"Dressier" dresses, a new style trend.

Style Predictions.

Even if you aren't going to the races, these are the clothes you'll be wearing, as they're the style predictions of some of America's outstanding designers.

"Dressier" dresses for afternoon wear made their appearance first in the spring collections and are proving popular for wear on the country club porch and for all types of afternoon wear.

Hand touches are popular—cut out appliques of print design, ruching used around hems or lapels, subtle quilting effects worked on print fabrics and tiny vertical tucking. These are used by fashion creators to duplicate the "hand look" so distinguished among Parisian couturiers.

Prints this year often have a "theme" rather than just a collection of colors tossed together into a design. Racing giraffs, piping Pans, seashells, Baroque scrolls, bees and butterflies are some of the prints shown, while others pick up British and national defense emblems.

Braves Seek Revenge From Birds In Double-Header

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The Fremont Green Sox are just about the most base-hit crazy bunch I've seen in this Ohio State league this year.

You'd think after those awful wallopings they took Sunday at the hands of Mansfield's Braves, 22-9 and 11-8, that they'd be feeling too low to worry about anything else.

But they showed no concern at all over those pastings.

* * *

All they wanted to know was: "Did I get a hit on this one, and did I get a hit on that one?"

And their argument, as usual, was: "You can't give him an error on that one, that was a hit for me."

* * *

Now Mansfield's Braves may be leading the league in fielding, but they're not such fielding miracle men that they never make an error, and not even the Fremonts can argue me into that.

* * *

"Some time ago you mentioned in the paper that I was sometimes called Irish for no apparent reason.

"Didn't you know that my mother came straight from the Ould Sod, and if the map of Ireland isn't planted all over my mug then I have been misinformed."

* * *

Okay, Irish, m'boy!

I knew it must have been more than plain left-handedness that caused you to want to get in there and pitch just three days after your jaw was broken by a line drive.

'Twas the old Irish fight in you, no less.

* * *

To Bob Kuzava doff the cap,
For on his mug is Erin's map.

* * *

Note to tennis players: You'll do yourselves a favor by supporting the South and Maple Lake Park association fiesta tomorrow night at Maple Lake.

Part of the proceeds of this event will be used for the upkeep of the Maple Lake tennis courts, and it takes no great deal of study to see that if funds are lacking, the courts will suffer.

Besides, the Maple Lakers tell me there'll be plenty of fun for everyone at this fiesta.

Satchel Paige Booked Here

Hurls for Kansas City Monarchs Monday Night.

Sport fans of Mansfield and vicinity will have an opportunity of seeing one of the nation's most publicized athletes perform in the Ohio State League Park here next Monday night, when Satchel Paige, the greatest pitcher in the history of big time colored baseball, comes here to hurl part of the game for his Kansas City Monarchs, when that nationally famous colored American League combine plays an exhibition game against the Liberty Park team who will be strengthened for this game.

* * *

Contracts calling for the personal appearance of Satchel Paige, on the mound for at least part of the game, were signed by George Satterlee, president of the Mansfield Baseball company, Hank Rigney, Toledo promoter who will have charge of the game here, and Joe Atton, representing the Liberties.

* * *

The Mansfield prexy made it plain that Rigney is handling the entire promotion and that the park is being leased by Rigney for this game only. Rigney will be remembered as the promoter who brought Jesse Owens, Tom Harmon, Chuck Chuckovits and other famous national celebrities to Mansfield.

Every player and every team brought to Mansfield has been exactly as represented by Rigney. In no instance has any player or team failed to show as advertised.

Rigney believes that Satchel Paige, glamorized in several national publications, is the greatest showman and the best drawing card of 'em all. He predicts the largest crowd to ever see a ball game in Mansfield will be on hand Monday night at 8:30.

Milnar To Face Washington Nats

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Al Milnar, the Indians' hard luck southpaw, was to take the mound today for the Tribe in the first game of the Washington series, with Ken Chase, also a postsider, opposing him as the American league went into action again after a day of rest.

* * *

Taking advantage of the open date the Redskins yesterday traveled to Portsmouth, Va., for an exhibition game with their Portsmouth affiliate of the Piedmont league, winding up with a 7-6 victory over their farmhands.

* * *

A homer by Hal Trosky with the bases full in the first inning was largely responsible for the victory. Ken Jungels pitched seven innings for the Tribe and granted all the minor leaguers' hits and runs. Bagby and Eisenstat worked an inning each.

Here's An Outfield That Is An Outfield

TRIS SPEAKER, BABE RUTH AND TY COBB

Welterweight Title Bout Postponed Until Tonight

By JACK MAHON

NEWARK, N. J.,—(INS)—Freddie (Red) Cochrane, saloon keeper and pug, by turn, will attempt to duplicate Mickey Walker's feat of bringing the welterweight championship of the world back to New Jersey, if the weatherman and Champion Fritzie Zivic oblige, tonight. Cochrane and Fritzie, whose bout was rained out last evening, will try to get going again tonight at Ruppert stadium here before a crowd expected to top 10,000 fans.

* * *

Intermittent showers throughout the day caused co-Promoters Mike Jacobs of New York and Babe Culnan, Newark to concel last night's show. Fair weather is promised for today, however, and, if the weatherman keeps his word, Zivic will lay the title on the line for the first time since he successfully defended it against Henry Armstrong at New York's Madison Square Garden last January.

* * *

Odds on the fight haven't changed. Zivic, by virtue of the way he chopped up Al (Bummy) Davis at the Polo Grounds in his last start, ruled a 4-1 favorite. Most of the experts figured Fritzie would stop Red in about 8 rounds.

Cochrane didn't share their sentiments. He is supremely confident he can outpoint Fritize in their 15 round duel and even went so far to invite Fritzie to a V party at his (Cochrane's) pub after the bout. Zivic said he would accept the invite but made it plain he would consider the affair a victory dinner for himself.

Yesterday's postponement was nothing unusual. In fact if the fight ever comes off at all there will be no one more relieved than Zivic and Cochrane. Four times previously the boys were scheduled to meet, and four times their match was cancelled for one reason or another.

* * *

The fourth cancellation was the most serious, for Zivic's manager, Luke Carney, revealed he feared a plot to "rob" Fritzie of his title. As Luke had it figured the Jersey officials would stop the fight if Zivic was cut about the eyes and award the fight to Cochrane.

* * *

Boxing Commission Chairman Abe Greene has assured Carney, however, there will be no stopping of the fight because of injuries without the referee first getting the manager's consent. Paul Cavalier, well known Jersey official, is expected to referee.

Zivic weighted 145 and Cochrane 142½ for yesterday's cancelled contest.

DROPS TWELVE INNING TILT TO SHELBY CLUB

The American Legion Junior team dropped a 12-inning tilt to Shelby Settlement 4-3 at Shelby Sunday.

It was a pitchers' duel as both the losing Winbigler and C. Beglin held batsmen down to six bingles apiece. Beglin fanned 27 and walked two while Winbigler struck out 23 and passed three.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Legion | 201 000 000 000—3 | 6 | 4 |
| Shelby | 200 010 000 001—4 | 6 | 2 |

Tangle With Touted Clubs

Providents Stage Double Bill at Fairground.

In an effort to raise money to meet expenses to the state girls' softball tourney at Youngstown two weeks away and at the same time sharpen their batting eyes on some rugged competition the Mansfield Provident Loans will stage a double-feature at the Fairgrounds Wednesday night.

The first tilt, starting at 7:30 p. m., will find the Providents meeting a touted Akron Merchants club. The Merchants boast one of the fastest rovers in girls' competition in the state in the person of a full blooded Indian lassie.

In the second tilt the Providents will tangle with a Massillon girls' club.

Fran Knapp will hurl in the opener and LaVonna Shaefer will climb the hill in the nightcap.

Title Contender Halted By Brown

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—The name of Mose Brown, heretofore obscure colored fighter from McKeesport, was suddenly on the lips of fight fans throughout the area today after his brilliant performance of knocking out — but cold—Jimmy Webb, light heavyweight contender, in 59 seconds of the second round.

It was no lucky hay-maker which found its way to Webb's chin, for twice in the first round Brown blasted the contender for Billy Conn's vacated title to the floor; once for a count of one and once out onto the ring apron for a count of three.

* * *

The miracle of the fight was not that Brown won, but that Webb survived even the first round, for he was out on his feet as Brown mercilessly pounded him.

* * *

In the second round Brown caught Webb with a beautiful right to the chin, dropping him like a sack of potatoes. At the end of the count Webb was still out.

In accordance with a pre-fight agreement, Webb and Brown will meet again Aug. 18. Brown weighed in at 170, Webb a half-pound lighter.

Success Proves No Riddle

ELMER RIDDLE

* * * * *

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Elmer Riddle, the 24-year-old (on July 31) sensation of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff, has another claim to distinction.

He'll stand right up and tell you why he's better than he was last year. He won one, lost two, for the Reds in 1940. He had won nine straight, lost none, going into the last half of July this season.

Ask the average pitcher the reason for any such marked improvemnt and he'll mutter something about "lucky, I guess."

Not so Elmer from Georgia. In an accent that looks like a foreign language if you try to put it on paper, the 170-pound Southerner calmly recites the reasons for his sudden rise to pitching effectiveness. Here they are, censored for accent:

* * *

"My curve ball is sharper this season. My fast ball has more of a hop on it. I've learned to throw my change-of-pace ball where it should be thrown."

* * *

One, two, three. That simple.

Elmer's baseball career has been a little surprising from the start. In high school he tried to ape his brother Johnny, a catcher. Occasionally he played second, or in the outfield. Then he got into semi-pro ball and one day:

"I was catchin' for one of the mill teams near my home town. Only one pitcher showed up and the man runnin' the club asked for a volunteer to take the mound. I tried it and got through four pretty fair innin's—and I was a pitcher."

* * *

That's what he thought, Elmer explains, until after a scout came along, summer of '35, and signed him up on account of that high, fast one they're always looking for. His early days in organized ball all but convinced him he wasn't a hurler.

* * *

Elmer started with Wassau in the Northern league and found the plate had become alarmingly small. He was tossed around considerable and in 1939, he says, was in "more leagues than that Mr. Verne man found under the sea."

Indianapolis had him, shied at his lack of control and shipped him to Chattanooga. The Lookouts sent him to Durham and he finally found the platter. Then it was back to Indianapolis where he performed well enough to be pulled into the Reds fold in 1940. He pitched in 15 games there last year, mostly relief chores.

Fight to Hold Second Place In League Race

Mansfield Loses In Ten Innings At Fostoria; Must Split Tonight

MANSFIELD BRAVES will be battling for revenge tonight at the Fairground when they tangle with the Fostoria Red Birds in a double-header starting at 7 o'clock.

The Birds edged the Braves 6 to 5 in 10 innings last night at Fostoria after Mansfield tied the score in the sixth stanza.

Mansfield will also be battling to maintain its present second-place margin of a game and a half over the Birds, and to do that they must at least split even in tonight's twin bill. Two wins for the Birds would put them in second place.

* * *

The Braves dropped back to a game and a half behind the loop-pacing Fremont Green Sox who took a 6 to 1 decision over Findlay.

* * *

Bob Kuzava and Jim Coleman have been named as the starting hurlers for Mansfield tonight.

Freddy Wolpert was charged with last night's defeat, placing the winning run on base before he was relieved in the 10th by Chuck Byers. Roy, who replaced Moore on the hill for Fostoria during a three-run Mansfield uprising in the fourth, got credit for the win.

* * *

That fourth inning splurge gave the Braves a 4 to 1 lead, but they didn't hold it long. Back came Fostoria with four runs in the last half of the same frame.

* * *

Buckamier led the attack for Fostoria with three hits in five times up, including a double and triple. Harry Siegbert got three for five for the Braves, while Reinka hit a triple and Mangan a double.

Pacemakers Hold Places

AA Standings Unchanged As Leaders Record Wins.

(By International News Service)

There was no change in the standings of the first division of the American Association today as each of the four teams recorded victories over second-division squads.

* * *

First-place Minneapolis defeated St. Paul, 9 to 2; second-place Columbus trounced Toledo, 15 to 2; third-place Louisville edged Indianapolis, 7 to 6, and fourth-place Kansas City took a close one from Milwaukee, 8 to 7.

* * *

The league leaders' win over St. Paul was the Millers' 11th victory over the Saints this season. Chief Elon Hogsett left-handed his way to the hurling victory.

* * *

Murry Dickson was the big show in the Columbus victory. The right-handed hurler held the Mud Hens to three hits and got four safeties himself, one a double and another a triple. After being nicked for a home run by the first batter, Dickson retired the next 22 batters in order.

* * *

Louisville scored all its runs in the sixth inning against the Indians. George Gill, who started on the mound for Indianapolis, had held the Colonels to five hits in the first five innings. Glen Fletcher, who relieved him in the fatal sixth, was charged with the defeat.

Kansas City came from behind to record the win over last-place Milwaukee. A double by Aaron Robinson and Bill Hitchcock's fourth single were the big blows in the eighth frame when the Blues scored three times.

New Loudonville Coach Appointed

Leo Grimes was named by the Loudonville board of education last night to take the place of Jack Kerekes as coach of the Red Birds squads.

Grimes, a graduate of Mt. Union college, comes to Loudonville from Wellington where he has been employed as coach and teacher for the past six years.

In addition to his coaching duties, Grimes will teach at the school.

Kerekes was hired as coach at Troy, O., high school this summer after winning two league championships in a row in basketball at Loudonville, and making a good showing in the state high school Class B. tournament last spring.

WALKER WINS

BALTIMORE, Md. —(INS)— Jack "Buddy" Walker, Ohio heavyweight boxing champion, today notched another victory in his comeback attempt after belting out a 10-round decision over Johnny Kapovich, 185, of Baltimore. Walker was far from impressive and used his 12 pound weight advantage against the Maryland youngster in the late rounds.

POPE SCORES KAYO

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)—Freddie Pope, slugging Columbus bantamweight who ranks sixth in the world in his class, today held a five round kayo over Jimmy Fox, of Indianapolis.

Congs Take Opener In League Play-Off

The Congregational softball club took the first game of a play-off series for the Church league championship last night as they set down the St. John's, first half title holders, 9-5.

* * *

St. John's moved out to a five to four lead in the fourth inning with a four run rally but the Congs held them scoreless after this brief splurge and went on to pull the game out of the fire.

* * *

Larson and Bush sparked the winning club while Augustine and Gross did the heavy work for St. John's. H. Krupp of the losers was the only stickman to connect for a round tripper.

PROFIT SALES SLACKEN RISE OF STOCK LIST

Higher Prices Continue To Rule But Trends Turn To Spotty Order.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Irregularly higher prices continued to rule in today's stock market although profit selling on the lengthy advance impeded many leaders. Trends turned a bit spotty after an upward opening. Dealings, fast for a while, slackened near the second hour.

A large bach of exceptionally favorable earnings statements bolstered individual stocks. Wall Street remained moderately bullish over the German-Russian war news but some doubts regarding the Far Eastern situation were thought to have arisen as a speculative handicap.

Studied in boardrooms was the federal reserve summary disclosing commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities for the week ended July 23 rose $23,000,000 to $6,011,000,000, a peak for the past decade. It was the fourtheenth consecutive weekly increase. The aggregate has been up in 42 out of the last 43 weeks.

Further proof of growing consumer demand was seen in the survey of the commerce department putting wholesale distribution for June at 32 per cent above the comparable 1940 month.

Japs Block Loading Of Goods For U. S.

SHANGHAI — (UP) — Japanese military authorities today prevented the loading of Japanese-owned cargo designed for the United States in the Philippines-registered steamship Dona Nati, 5,011 tons, as their retaliatory measure against the American freezing order.

Japanese authorities had forbidden Japanese yesterday to conduct operations with Americans or Britons except by special permission.

In applying their regulations today they prevented the loading of $36,500 worth of rapeseed oil for the United States and of a general cargo in the Dona Nati, which is to sail tomorrow without any cargo. The ship is owned by the American De La Rama line and its home port is Iloilo, Philippines.

It was unedrstood that the Japanese intended to issue a list of materials which could not be exported.

Japanese authorities today cleared some shipments of machinery and small manufactured items, such as bulbs and batteries, but refused permits covering ores, oils, and chemicals

It was understood that the Japanese had refused to permit American firms to import cargoes of tea from Wenchow, on the China coast, "because of the military necessity of maintaining the blockade of China."

HITS 'GOOD NEIGHBOR' POLICY; URGES CONTROL OF AMERICAS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Declaring that "the good neighbor policy has been a failure," Senator Clark (D-Ida) suggested today that the United States "take over control" of all Latin America and Canada.

He mentioned puppet governments as one means to such an end.

Clark, one of the senate group opposing administration foreign policy, told newsmen that "instead of talking about sending soldiers to Europe we ought to think about using them here in our own hemisphere.

"We could make some kind of arrangement to set up puppet governments which we could trust to put American interests ahead of those of Germany or any other nation in the world."

Clark said that throughout its history, the United States has had an opportunity to consolidate North and South America under its dominion.

"It may be," he said, "that this is our last chance. If we don't do it now, when it is easy, we shall have to look forward to never-ending quarrels and jealousies, foreign infiltration and other dangers to our own security."

Another opponent of the administration foreign policy, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that while he opposed the "good neighbor" policy in principle, "it seems to be working for the time being."

"It probably will continue to work as long as we keep passing out money," he declared, "but that can not go on forever."

Taft made it clear he did not favor any military action against either Canada or the Latin American countries, however.

HIT BY TRAIN

Workers Leap To Safety as Handcar's Wrecked.

SHELBY—A handcar was hit by a train on the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near Tucker avenue early this morning.

Five employes on their way to work with the section gang jumped to safety when they saw the train approaching.

The men apparently thought the train was the work train on its way to pick them up and failed to get the handcar off the track, waiting for the train to stop.

The train was delayed about 10 minutes until the handcar could be removed from along the tracks.

HELL TO PAY, JOHNSON SAYS

General Says U. S. Needs an Efficient Overhead Command During Emergency.

The new tax-bill is another evidence of lack of governmental guts. It is positively vicious in its adherence to the old Huey Long formula of "soak the rich." That is all right. I have yet to hear a complaint from people in the higher brackets except as to the cynically unjust compulsory joint return which vastly increases taxes on some heads of families if their wives happen to have an income too. But the cowardice of the tax bill is that it doesn't broaden the base of taxation and make everybody pay some part of his income, be is ever so small, to the great national effort.

There is apparently no fear of soaking the not-so-rich by excise and other hidden taxes that are much heavier but for which no politician fears to be blamed.

But a courageous administration seeking unity through justice and with an efficient economic general staff working to balance all these burdens would lose no time in frankly and courageously exposing all such things as are discussed in this column and at least trying to get our American economic motor clicking on all twelve cylinders.

It will have to be done eventually but why do we have to suffer all the inconvenience, useless sacrifice and possible danger of disaster by not doing it in time —by not reorganizing the executive side of government for efficient co-ordinated action right now?
